Our National Capital Happenings!

[Special correspondence DAILY NEWS.]

WASHINGTON, April 20, 1891.

Senator Sherman is in town and many are the ruses that have been tried for the purpose of getting an authorative statement from him as to his future political intention, but no one has succeeded in drawing him out. A gentleman close to him personally and politically, and who probably knows, if anybody does, said to me: "Mr. Sherman isn't ready to talk yet and those acquainted with him know how useless it is for anybody to try to persuade him to do so until he is. But you may be certain that when the proper time comes the people of Ohio will be told whether he wishes to be re-elected to the Senate; John Sherman never travels under false pretences, and never hestitates to ask in an open and manly manner for the political support of his constituents when he desires it." It is the opinion of all the prominent republicans with whom I have talked, among them several Ohio men, that Mr. Sherman will be a candidate for the re-election to the Senate, and that also is my own impression.

The success of special envoy, ex-Minister Foster, in negotiating with Spain a reciprocity treaty between Cuba and the United States, along the lines of the McKinley tariff act, gives great satisfaction in official circles, and most effectually disposes of all the democratic fairy tales about there being a hitch on account of the demand of Spain that we should place Cuban tobacco on the free list. The Spanish Government was very anxious that we should admit Cuba's tobacco free of duty, but it was far too sensible to demand it, and when informed that it was impossible there was no more said about it.

The subject of counterfeiting United States currency is assuming grave proportions and the officials of the Treasury Department are just at present giving considerable time to studying it, in the hope of discovering a remedy or preventative. The chief engraver of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who is away up as an expert, spent an hour in examining two $2 silver certificates, one genuine and the other counterfeit, with a powerful magnifying glass and his verdict was that there was not the slightest difference between the two notes. New inventions in photo-mechanical processes have made it easy and cheap for the counterfeiters to reproduce on a metal plate every line of a note and after a little etching it is an exact duplicate of the steel plate from which the note was originally printed and which it had taken months to engrave.

The color in the red seals and the green backs was once a protection, but late discoveries in photochromy makes it easy to reproduce the precise shades. The chief of the Secret Service in his last annual report says on this subject: "The genuine government notes nowadays, especially the series of 1890, are marvels of the engraving art aided by the wonderful geometric lathe, one would think it impossible to successfully counterfeit such work upon looking over the complex area of lines and patterns; and yet at this moment counterfeiters are reproducing it so perfectly that the elaborate beauty of this paper money may be said to offer no protection to the public or defense against fraud."

The only way the expert has of detecting these skillfully executed counterfeits is by the paper and that has been so well imitated that no one but an expert can tell it from the genuine. So that really about the only protection the public has against counterfeiting is the vigilance of the Treasury Secret Service.

Representative Springer, of Illinois, is now jocularly referred to as the "talking candidate" for Speaker of the House, because of the number of his recent newspaper interviews. In his last, after painting his own prospects a deep roseate hue, which by the way, is not visible to anyone else, he sails into New York politics, nominates for governor and elects Representative Rosewell P. Flower, whose 'barrel" has so often been on tap to the "boys" of the democratic machine, and makes him the democratic presidential nominee, just as if those other two gentlemen—Cleveland and Hill—were not in existence.

Really the Speakership business is getting decidedly interesting, and each of the would-be democratic presidential candidates will soon have a candidate for Speaker. Mr. Mills is the Cleveland candidate, Mr. Crisp the Hill candidate, and it looks as if Mr. Springer was the Flower candidate, with a number of others yet to be heard from.

The Italian business has again simmered down, and everybody here thinks that Rudini will find it extremely difficult to answer Mr. Blaine's last dispatch, which meets with commendation on all sides and from everybody.

Important Coal Lands.

Ex-Sheriff W. Miles Walker departed on the early train this morning for New Florence, Westmoreland county where he goes, to develope some valuable coal lands he has lately acquired in that county. Miles tells us that he owns and has leased over seventeen hundred acres, lying on both sides of the Pennsylvania railroad and extending a mile and a half along it. On these lands he has four veins, one of 7 feet, one of 2, one of 12 and one of 4. The first one opens within 90 feet of the railroad and the farthest one only 140 feet away. Mr. Walker intends developing it as fast as possible and it may be that in the near future he will open up extensive collieries at that place. We certainly wish him success.

THE resignation of Senator Edmunds, although not entirely unexpected, is a serious loss to the republican party and the country. He is justly regarded as one of the ablest expounders of constitutional law in the United States. We trust that the gentleman may soon recover his health, and that he may live long to give the party he has so ably stood by for so many years the benefit of his experience and advice.

20,000 Men May Strike.

PITTSBURG, April 21.—The general lock-out of 5,000 by the master stone masons has inaugurated the builders fight for eight hours. The lock-out has combined all the building forces and instead of 5,000, fully 20,000 men employed in the trades about the city will strike May 1.

MANY years practice have given C. A Snow & Co., Solicitors of Patents, at Washington, D. C., unsurpassed success in obtaining patents for all classes of inventions. They make a specialty of rejected cases, and have secured the allowance of many patents that had been previously rejected. Their advertisement in another column will be of interest to inventors, patentees, manufacturers and all those who have anything to do with patents.

HE is a sanguine democrat who can extract any consolation out of the Spring elections, throughout the country. There are indications that the republicans are again "touching elbows" preparatory to a national victory next year.

THE "tin-plate liar" seems to have crawled into his hole and pulled the hole in after him.

To Pay Debts in Legal Tender.

The Bill Before the Pennsylvania Legislature Attracting Attention Elsewhere.

To the Editor of THE INQUIRER:

The act providing that "all obligations of debt, contracted to be paid in money, shall be payable—all stipulations to the contrary notwithstanding—in either the notes, certain silver or gold coin, authorized by the Congress of the United States as a legal tender," as adopted by the Pennsylvania State Senate, is certainly a measure of very great importance. The righteousness of the measure should commend it to everyone, whether debtor or creditor, and should become a law in every State.

Much has been written concerning the conflicting interests of the debtor and creditor, and of money, its functions, and what it is, until the average man has about concluded to "give it up" and not attempt to get at the truth. And yet "what money is," is a very simple proposition.

Without a government (that is an organized society) there can be no such a thing as money. In all unorganized communities barter is the mode of exchange. An organized society establishes tokens to represent value, which tokens become the measure by which relative values are estimated. When an organized society declares the token it calls (and uses as) money to be a legal tender for all debts public and private the question of intrinsic value is not necessarily involved. The term intrinsic value is here merely used to convey the idea that the precious metals, for instance, have other uses which give them value other than for coinage purposes; for should the governments of the world cease to use them as money their market value as metals would at once be very materially reduced.

The organized society known as the United States of America has, by its articles of agreement, provided that the money of the society shall consist of certain gold and silver coins, which shall be a legal tender for all debts, public and private, within the corporate limits of the society. Congress has also declared that certain paper notes shall also be a legal tender for all debts, public and private. Any question as to the constitutionality of the declaration by Congress could be finally submitted to the components of the organized society for determination, and no one questions that should "we, the people," authorize our Representatives in Congress to change the material of the national legal tender, that thereafter the new material would perform all the function of money within the corporate limits of the United States which are now exercised by gold and silver coins.

The question as to our not having a medium of exchange with foreign peoples need not be considered in this present discussion. The question now under consideration is not the material of our money, but the legal tender quality of our money.

In your editorial of March 26 you justly say the proposed measure is intended to "protect the debtor class, and to prohibit any contracts not in accordance with the laws of the United States Government." The measure only refers to "obligations of debt contracted to be paid in money," and as the government of a nation only has the authority to declare what shall constitute the legal tender money of the nation, it follows that all obligations are, logically, illegal which should specify any other money than the legal tender money of the nation. In this connection it is not necessary to enter upon the questions of mometalism or bimetalism or of greenbackism. The question under discussion is merely, What is right, what is honest, between man and man, debtor and creditor, and what is best for all?

As a matter of right, the debtor should repay in kind the material borrowed. Should the material of the legal tender consist of gold, silver and paper at the time he borrows, the debtor should certainly be permitted to choose the material of the legal tender with which to cancel his obligations, should the question of material be raised; provided, that the material he may select shall be a legal tender for all debts public and private, by the laws of the country.

No greater evil can befall a nation than that of a fluctuating currency. The money of the nation should be a legal tender (whatever its material might be), and never lose its legal tender quality.

The legal tender quality is the only fixed standard—the international money problem not now being under consideration, as before stated.

The borrower should not be "servant to the lender," for, in the nature of things, when the rich "beat the people to pieces and grind the faces of the poor," the reflex results are always disastrous to the rich in the end. "Live and let live" is a safe rule, and if the debtor is permitted to pay in the legal tender money of the nation, no possible injustice can be done. To illustrate: A farmer borrows $1,000 in the mixed currency of to-day, with which he can purchase 1,000 bushels of wheat or 100 acres of land in a given locality.

Five years from now, because of war or any other violent disturber of the relationship of values, gold, because of its international mometary value, become at a premium over the legal tender paper currency (assuming our government would make the same financial blunder it did in 1861), so that $1,000 in gold would purchase $2,000 of the legal tender money current among the people, or 2,000 bushels of wheat or 200 acres of land, it would certainly be unjust to require the debtor to pay the equivalent of 2,000 bushels of wheat to satisfy a debt contracted for the equivalent of 1,000 bushels of wheat. Equity as well as justice would be served in this case by the contract being settled in the legal tender in general use among the people at the date of settlement. The debtor should pay the equivalent of 1,000 bushels of wheat, which was the convertible value of the money he borrowed, and the creditor should be satisfied to receive the equivalent of 1,000 bushels of wheat, which was the convertible value of the money he loaned.

Let it be remembered that it is the legal tender which pays debts, whether it consists of coined or paper money, and that uncoined gold or uncoined silver are not a legal tender (anywhere on the face of the earth) and cannot be forced upon a creditor in settlement of obligations.

This proposed measure is certainly in the interest of all the people of this country. The idea of the legal tender quality of money should first be crystallized in the minds of the people (and the idea of intrinsic value eliminated) as well as in the laws of the country; then would follow, for settlement, as a natural sequence, the questions of the material of which the legal tender shall consist and the quantity of legal tender necessary for the requirements of the nation.

This article cannot be closed in better language than that employed in your editorial: "It is a bill that should be adopted in every other State of the Union."

Respectfully, JOHN T. FIELD,
2045 BLENDON PLACE, ST. LOUIS, April, 7.

Over 15,000 Manuscripts.

Mr. Bok, the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, recently gave some interesting figures relative to the manuscripts received by his magazine during 1890. Owing to its departments and peculiar character, the Journal probably receives more manuscripts than any magazine published. Mr. Bok says that he received at his office a total number of 15,205 manuscripts, of these 2,280 were poems; 1,746 stories and 11,179 miscellaneous articles. Of the poems 66 were accepted; of the stories, only 21, and of the articles 410, of which latter, however, over 300 were solicited articles. Thus, it is seen that the entire 15,000 manuscripts only 497 were accepted; a trifle over three per cent. Deducting from this the 300 accepted articles written at the editor's soliciation, the net percentage of unsolicited manuscripts accepted is brought down to 197, or a little more than one per cent. Statistics such as these show how much utter trash is being written, and the number of persons writing who ought to be employing their time at something else and better.

GOVERNOR-SENATOR HILL is smarter than some of the other democratic Presidential candidates. He has announced his opposition to free trade. This makes an impassable gulf between that gentleman and Roger Q. Mills, the free trader, who hopes to be the next Speaker of the House, by the aid of that other distinguished free trader, Governor Cleveland.

THE republican party is recovering from the knock-down foul blow it received last fall so fast that it astonishes the gentlemen who were so positive that it was entirely dead. The republican party is typical of truth, which may be temporarily crushed by falsehood, but which never fails to prevail in the end.

The Philadelphia "Press"

Misrepresents the Farmers and in Conflict with the Republican Party.

Ever since the advent of the editor of the "Press," who presides over the general editorial productions of that journal, and who was specially imported from a distant state that his vast intellect (?) might illume the dim understanding of the people of this Commonwealth, that journal seems to have run amuck at every turn with the farmers, and general business interests of the whole people, and marks out for its scope of vision no interest worthy of support and advocacy, save those represented by corporations, and largely and most vigorously those of uncertain purpose and doubtful credit.

That journal has, for some time past, opened its columns for, and with cunning zeal solicited, every manner of misrepresentation as to the acts and doings of the farmers in their proposed measures of legislation in the legislature of Kansas. This great method or character of journalism has for so long a time been carried on and persisted in as to draw forth a most excellent letter, clear and vigorous in statement, from the pen of the Hon. P. P. Elder, speaker of the House of the Kansas Legislature. The letter sets forth—not in protest—for it would seem that the Kansas farmer, in his dignified manhood, feels no sting in anything that may eminate from a journal so conducted, but in recital of fact and purpose of their proposed measures, all of which legislation, as set forth, is as free from the wilful representation of what had been published in the Press as it was possible to state.

The New York Evening Post had been imposed on by the reports sent out from Kansas and the letter of Mr. Elder named that journal, and also named the Press, as guilty of publishing what was deliberate misrepresentation. The Post not only published the letter of Speaker Elder but in editorial comment commended their general purpose. The Press not only fails to publish the letter, that the farmers of Kansas, and elsewhere, may be properly understood, but resorts in reply to personal abuse and denounces all of that vocation in life—"Speaker Elder and his assistants, as demagogues."

When an editor, or aught other person, who through ignorance, or with or without intent, wrongs or misrepresents another, and being apprised of the fact, fails to make correction, he not only falls below the title of gentleman but renders himself a coward and unworthy of respect or belief.

The Press seems to need a reminder that vocation in life is no hindrance to a full qualification to govern, nor to the acquirement of a clear comprehension that the highest aim and attribute of all law is the greatest good for the greatest number, and for which farmers are as capable of striving to attain as any other class.

The Romans found Cincinnatus at the plough and, had the people of the United States but looked earlier, there too they would have found Abraham Lincoln, Ben Wade and a host of others who have gone down in honor and fame as statesmen; while the ranks may be full of those who aspire not to govern, yet as they toil they are at least entitled to respectful hearing when, with one accord, they cry out "hear me for my cause."

MR. HARRISON has earned by hard work the vacation he is now taking by his intelligent and statesmanlike manner of conducting his administration he has shown himself to be fully entitled to the ovations he is certain to receive at every point at which he stops.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN.

DISCUSSES THE "OUIJA" AND LANDLORD HAAG'S LICENLE.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—I have just been awakened from my Rip Van Winkle sleep by the introduction into our little town of that wonderful little prognosticator, the "Ouija," a small table which seems to have created considerable fun, excitement and nervousness among the young—as well as older—folks about town; and which instrument has been generously termed a fortune teller, false prophet, spiritualist and the angels above only know what all. Just how they got introduced into Bellefonte we know not but that they are here is certain and now every love-sick swain is consulting the mysterious prognosticator t ascertain just when they will marry, how they'll marry and who they'll marry, and then if the little table makes assurance doubly sure by predicting them born for each other and that the match has already been made in heaven, there is an added bliss and supremer content in the minds and hearts of each as they seek the repose of their downy couch.

But in one case brought to our notice the little prognosticator was not a success. It is that of a certain unmarried lady, who is on the shady side of sixteen, and who longed to find out what was in store for her. Accordingly she asked. The "Ouija" told her that she would ere long marry a rich man from Pittsburg, be happy for a while, have several children, would take a trip to Europe, while there would become very sick—nigh unto death—but would finally recover; her husband would then fall sick and die and her troubles would be just begun. At this juncture the lady became seriously alarmed and, as she is a Catholic, sought to appease the feelings of her fortune teller by a generous sprinkling of holy water. Just what the result was we have not learned as the lady thereafter refused to hold any further communication with the "Ouija."

And by the way, wouldn't the "Onija" be a good thing for Landlord Haag to ask whether or not he is going to get a license. The Judges don't seem to know and it might be this little table could tell him all about it and thus relieve him of considerable worriment and weary waiting. According to the statement of one who knows there is nothing now in the way of Mr. Haag's being granted what he so much desires, as all the charges against him have been cleared up so that all that remains to do is the decision to be made public. Just why it is being so long delayed is a mystery and will probable remain a mystery for some time.

MAN ABOUT TOWN.

That Cleveland Interview.

NEW YORK, April 21.—A representative of the asssociated press called at Cleveland's office this afternoon to ascertain whether the interview as given in the Evening Telegram was accurate. Cleveland said he had not talked with anyone on the silver question for publication. He had not read the Telegram's article and could not therefore say whether statements credited to him were an accurate expression of his views or not.

IF this administration had done nothing else than to compel the German's to receive our meats and meat products, which have been prohibited by that country for several years, it would deserve the thanks of every American citizen.

THE democratic "rainbow chasers" have once more made a miserable failure to connect with that mythical bag of gold, but they will continue to win republican states, on paper, as usual.

[illegible] BOY.

Here's the sunny boy
And the quiet boy
And the boy who [illegible]
There's the boy who's sly
And the boy who's fly
And the boy who apes the mule.

[illegible]
Who spoiled the joys
Of the merriest heart of boys
Is the boy who's weak
And timid and meek—
The darling who will not [illegible]

That the world is tough
And rugged and rough
Full well his mother knows.
How can she bear
To see him dare
Its grim, unfeeling blows!

For what to her
Are life's prod and spur,
That make of the boy a man!
Though born to rule,
Some senseless fool
Might ruin her hero's plan.

So she keeps him snug
As a bug in a rug,
Where nobody says him nay,
Till he turns out a cad,
Or goes to the bad,
While his mother's hair turns gray.

HOW UNCLE SAM IS ROBBED.

Clever Postal Thieves and How They Rob Letters Without Opening Them.

William J. Clark, who is superintendent of the Thomson-Houston Electric Company in New York, was for four years a postoffice inspector, and recently, while in Cincinnati, he told a Times-Star reporter some of his experiences in the mail service.

"I was reading the other night," said Mr. Clark, "of some of the skillful means adopted by postal thieves to rob the mails of Uncle Sam, and I realized that some of the most novel stories of thieving had been omitted by the inspector who gave the stories.

"Now, just imagine, if you can, how money may be extracted from a letter without opening the envelope. Remember, the envelope is sealed. It is almost impossible to imagine how such a thing can be done, and yet it has been done several times, and once very successfully by a clerk in a New Jersey postoffice. For many months reports were received by the Department of large amounts of money being extracted from letters which close examination showed never to have been opened. As may be easily imagined, the inspectors who were set to work on the case were dumfounded, and knew not where to start in to ferret out the thief.

"It is a well known fact that when once a man starts in to rob the mails he generally keeps on with his thieving until he is caught. So it was with the thief in this instance; his persistence brought about his capture. It would not interest you much to know how he was captured, but how he extracted the money is the pointer. You know that nearly every envelope is left at both ends without any mucilage with which to seal the flap. Our man would feel a letter, and if he thought it contained money would press the top and bottom together so that he could just get a glimpse of the interior of the envelope. Then, taking two needles fastened together at the ends, which he held in his hand, he would insert the other ends, and, nipping the bill as though with a pair of pincers, he would deftly roll the piece of currency about the needles and then take out his money. It was estimated that he had secured nearly $1,000 in this manner.

"And that brings me down to a peculiar fact. Do you know that sending paper money through the mails unregistered is a very foolish thing? Why, of course it is, as I can prove to you in an instant. Here's this $5 bill. I'll put it in an envelope. Now smell it. There you have it. There is nothing on earth that smells like paper money, and an expert thief with good olfactory nerves can detect the presence of money in an envelope at any stage of the game. There is one thing that the people should remember, and that is that 'for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain' the average mail thief beats the 'heathen Chinee.'"

Thinkers' Bill of Fare.

The intellectual worker needs plenty of light, digestible food, such as fish, poultry, eggs, game, fruit, and the succulent vegetables.

The proper diet for all sedentary people is an early an entire supply of digestible food, including plenty of cereals and fruit.

A cup of some warm drink should be taken just before rising, or as soon as it can be prepared, and positively no work should be done until after breakfast.

As the digestive organs are most active early in the day, a second hearty but digestible meal can be eaten at noon, if an hour's rest intervenes before continued labor or exercise.

The afternoon work should be light, and part of the time spent out of doors. A light, digestible dinner may follow about nightfall, and the evening be devoted to recreation or social relaxation.

When any night work is contemplated food should be taken at midnight and again at dawn, when the vital forces fail—

That sad, still hour before the dawn,
When old men die and babes are born.

Special care should be taken to insure plenty of pure air and light; strong meats and drinks should be avoided, and abundance of milk used, with eggs, fruit, and fresh vegetables and salads.—[Harper's Bazar.

When the Earth Was Young.

When the earth was very young, says Dr. Ball, Astronomer Royal for Ireland, it went around so fast that the day was only three hours long. The earth was liquid then, and as it spun around and around at that fearful speed, and as the sun caused ever increasing tides upon its surface, it at last burst in two. The smaller part became the moon, which has been going around the earth ever since at an increasing distance. The influence of the moon now rises tides on the earth, and, while there was any liquid to operate on in the moon, the earth returned the compliment.

EDUCATIONAL.

An unknown friend of Yale has given $87,000 for the erection of a new dormitory for the students.

School gardens, of which there are more than 8,000 in Austria, are being laid in different parts of Germany. Their object is to give methodical instruction in the cultivation of fruit trees to be used in the teaching of botony.

The department of public instruction for New York State will award a gold medal to the student in the common schools of that State who shall present the best essay on a plan for the most profitable observance of Arbor day.

The trustees of Dartmouth College have made the biennial offer, open to all persons, of the Richmond Fletcher prize of $500 for the best essay on a religious subject, the theme in the present instance being "The Right Observance of the Sabbath."

Edwin Conant, of Worcester, left an estate valued at $300,000. Harvard College is made residuary legatee, and it is estimated that it will receive about $100,000, which is to be put into a new building to bear the testator's name. The college also gets real estate worth $20,000.

The Russian Prince Mestsherski recently declared in the Grashdanin: "All popular education is an evil." This opinion has been indorsed with unusual unanimity by official circles in St. Petersburg, especially in consequence of the prevalent conviction that radical, if not revolutionary, ideas are invariably the result of teaching the common people too much.

Professor W. R. Harper, of Yale University, whom we suppose we may now call President Harper of the Chicago University that is to be, says they want to open the university October 1, 1892, with $10,000,000 in hand as the first step, to be followed in the second step with $20,000,000 in hand. That is certainly ambitious, and we hope they will get it.

The statistics of the attendance at the German universities for the winter term just closed are as follows: Berlin, 5,527; Leipsic, 3,458; Munich, 3,382; Wurzburg, 1,544; Tubingen, 1,250; Bresslau, 1,246; Bonn, 1,219; Erlangen, 1,054; Heidelberg, 970; Strassburg, 947; Freiburg, 931; Gottingen, 890; Marburg, 855; Greifwald, 773; Konigsburg, 682; Jena, 640; Glessen, 549; Kiel, 489; Munstery, 385; Rostock, 371. The total number of students to-day is 28,711.

In a recent article in one of the English magazines Sir John Lubbock undertakes to prove by statistics that education in entirely responsible for the vast decrease of crime in London; that, taking into consideration the increase of population since the passage of the free school act by parliament, the falling off is 50 per cent in adult criminals, while in the case of juvenile offenders it has been even greater. From these figures he argues that there is no more economic way of spending money than this of training the mind, and that every penny devoted to schools and public libraries will profit the community at large many fold, even if viewed merely on the lowest of utilitarian planes.—[New York Recorder.

BUSINESS FOR WOMEN.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THOSE WHOM NECESSITY COMPELS TO LABOR.

Possible Openings for Ready Hands and Willing Hearts—Great Talents Are Not Essential, as Many Examples Show.

It is not only no longer a disgrace for women to work, but also a manifest need, writes Bertha Greene Lockwood, since so many of them have to earn not only their sugar money, but their bread and butter money as well. Much has been done in finding openings for them, but the movement tends too much in one direction. Every woman does not possess artistic or literary talent that produces remunerative results, nor has every one a taste for deep study, and to some active spirits confinement and sedentary habits are almost unbearable. For these there are a number of employments waiting, if they are wise enough to invent them, or will fill them when the need of them is suggested.

Our luxury of buying catsup from the grocery store sprang from a little thing. An old German farmer's tomato vines yielded beyond all demand for the fresh fruit. The frugal wife declared that not one should waste, so she made catsup until the jars were too numerous to keep, and began giving them away to friends. The next year orders came pouring in, not only from friends, but from many of whom the old people had never heard. The outcome of it was the largest factory for making bottled sauces in the world.

When we consider the unsatisfactory laundering with which most people have to struggle, and the delicate handling that expensive flannels require, it seems indeed that a good income would reward the woman who would make a specialty of caring for that part of the washing alone. Provided with borax and fine white soap for baby's dainty skirts and fluffy jackets and blankets, and with a bottle of ammonia for heavier blankets and shawls, and above all an understanding of the right temperature for the water, and the quick, deft handling, patting, and shaking, she would be a welcomed assistant to the overworked and overworried housekeeper. The embroidered linens also require more care and delicacy of treatment than the average laundress usually gives them, and the specialist might include them in her list.

Another occupation suggests itself by the fact that silver cleaning and polishing require more professional knowledge than most housekeepers possess. There is a valuable recipe for a sort of recoating that jewelers use when the silver needs polishing, which might be easily procured. Powder is all that is required for ordinary cleaning. Sponge, soft cotton, and flannel complete the outfit. The care of the beautiful, expensive lamps now so favored might belong to this service, also the picture frames, chandeliers, and mirrors.

Provided with a bellows, sponge, old pieces of silk and soft cotton, a bottle of furniture polish, and a knowledge of the different stains, varnishes, and enamels, one might offer her services for the cleaning and repairing of furniture. Indeed, quite a field offers itself in pianos alone, for it is well nigh impossible for the housekeeper to keep them free from dust, and the professional tuner pays little attention to their cleanliness. With this work one might include wall paper cleaning and patching. Sharp scissors, a roll of cleaner's dough, and the permission to match papers in some well furnished paper store, are all the requirements. Housekeepers would soon consider successful workers in these specialties a necessity, especially where there is expensive furnishing, or little fingers to soil, break, and tear.

These housekeeping industries may also be made timely. In house cleaning season the repairing and cleaning of curtains, drapes, and rugs, the recovering of cushions and stools, and the devising, turning, changing, and inventing for new and artistic effects with the old furniture, are matters to be carefully considered. Indeed, one might make house cleaning itself the specialty, and engage a number of assistants to wield scrub brush and broom. Engagements could be made three months in advance. Following this is the fruit season, which lasts late into the fall. Because of the large orders during the whole season, the specialist could procure fruit, sugar, cans, and all requirements from the commission houses at wholesale rates, thus making her services doubly desirable. In the winter season cooking pumpkin and hominy, rendering leaf lard, making mincemeat, fruit cake, and plum puddings and all such things that suggest themselves will keep the ball rolling.

It is surprising that some enterprising woman does not see clearly that Santa Claus needs an agent. With samples, circulars, prices, and above all suggestions of a hundred unthought of treasures for her stock in trade, she could soon make herself a place with both dealers and customers, and her sphere would ultimately extend to weddings and birthdays.

A successful occupation might belong to the woman who would make a specialty of manufacturing potpourri and sachet powders. A very superior formula for the potpourri is: One pound of rose leaves, two of powdered orris root, four ounces of vanilla bean, six of tonqua bean, and one each of cinnamon, verbena, allspice, and clove powder. In making sachet powder omit the rose leaves. This would be especially lucrative to anyone having a rose garden.

A recent eastern advertisement says: "Send some pieces left after cutting your dress and we will make your buttons and return them by next mail." Why can not some quick witted woman make just such an offer near her own home? A supply of button molds in all sizes, ivory and steel rims, and fancy centers make the outfit. These can be gotten from the factories. A card to all dressmakers, and the quick, neat filling of orders might be the beginning of a large and profitable business.

Not one month, or three, or six, can build up a large business of any one of these named, but if one be faithful and patient, the success will come, not quickly—it seldom does—but surely.

A SECRET OF THE DEAD.

HUMAN AND ANIMAL BODIES TO BE PRESERVED FROM DECAY.

A Process of Embalming Far in Advance of the Lost Art of the Egyptians—An Amazing Sight in a West Virginia Log Cabin—Farmer Hamrick's Discovery.

In a log cabin, about two and one-half miles from Phillippi, W. Va., lives an old German farmer, who will some day give to the world that which will prove the wonder of the nineteenth century. It seems that it has been left to the gray bearded old man, Graham H. Hamrick, to discover something which has puzzled the brains of learned men and scientists for ages past. The discovery is the art of preserving animal and vegetable substances so either may be kept without a sign of decay or decomposition but in his efforts to solve this great problem he has become to be regarded by many people in that section of the country as some kind of being to be avoided, and there are many who will not go near the log house in which the old man has "live dead people" and animals.

Just how Mr. Hamrick conceived the idea that he could preserve animal and vegetable matter in its natural state he does not say, but after experimenting for years, a short time ago he became convinced that he had not labored in vain, and he now declares, and his works prove, that he has the art perfected. Until a short time ago his experiments in preserving or embalming had been confined to lower animals and vegetables, and so successful had been his efforts that he determined to test the process on human bodies. He secured permission from the authorities of the State Hospital for the Insane to experiment on two bodies. These were given into his custody, and in one hour after he had them in his room he informed the authorities that they were ready for inspection. The bodies were examined critically, and it was found that they had not been mutilated in any way, not a drop of blood had been drawn, nor an incision or puncture made in them.

Since that time the two bodies have been continually exposed to the air and all kinds of climatic changes, but they are still perfect and lifelike. They are now in his room lying on a table, looking as natural as when living. The blood in the veins can be plainly seen standing out in bluish black lines where vessels are superficial. There is not the slightest trace of odor or decay about the bodies.

In this same room are embalmed cats, dogs, fowls, rabbits, fawns, and other things—all as natural as life. Sticking about in corners and on rough shelves these "ornaments" give the room the appearance of a museum. Those who have ventured in the home of the farmer have been amazed at the sight. Mr. Hamrick is plain and frank, with only a moderate education, but he has been too shrewd to give the slightest idea of his process.

However, he does not hesitate to say that his process consists of applying a fluid, the ingredients of which can be found in almost any general country store, and that the whole thing is so simple a child could use it. This assertion is doubted by gentlemen who have given the matter years of careful study.

The wisest heads in this country and Europe have been puzzled in trying to solve or comprehend his mystery.

No matter how eminent or how learned a man may be, not one has yet visited Mr. Hamrick and seen the demonstrations of its workings but has been pleased and instructed by his visit. A beef packer of Chicago came to see him with a view of using the fluid in the preservation of beef for the market. He asked Mr. Hamrick if he could preserve, say, 500 beeves and keep them 30 days. Mr. Hamrick said: "I can not say, sir. I have kept a few pounds of beef on experiments for nine months." He positively refuses to claim more power in his process than he can prove by past experiment to belong to it.

The home of this queer old man is ever open to those who wish to visit him. There are those who dread him and his humble cabin because they fear the dead, and on account of his association with the embalmed or mummified animals and bodies. It is almost impossible to get negroes to go near his cabin.

The learned doctors of this country are not alone in recognizing him and his secret in a proper way. Recently the Royal Scientifique Association, of France, made him an honorary member, gave him a certificate of life membership, and a solid gold medal as a token of the esteem in which they hold him for making it possible for the people of this age to no longer speak of the "lost art" of embalming.

The process is no doubt worth an almost inestimable amount of money, yet this queer old man does not want to change his habits and ways of living. He says he had rather live quietly along in his little home on his hilly farm, surrounded by his "pets," than accept the wealth at his command and hobnob with "great men."

The old man, at most, can not live many years, and when the death angel calls him, perhaps a small concourse of people will follow his remains to their final resting place, most likely to be in the old cemetery by the church, not more than half a mile from his home. Be that as it may, when his secret is made known, or comes into general use, he will be enrolled as one of the most eminent inventors of the age, and his fame will go down to posterity as the wizard who more than restored to mankind the secret process of embalming that which originated and perished with the Pharaohs.

Work, according to my feeling (says Humboldt), is as much a necessity to man as eating and sleeping. Even those who do nothing which to a sensible man can be called work, still imagine that they are doing something. The world possesses not a man who is an idler in his own eyes.

Hypnotism is the latest cure for drunkenness. Now for a cure for hypnotism.

200 MILES AN HOUR.

How We Shall Soon Be Able to Travel at That Marvelous Rate.

Doesn't it begin to look as if the nineteenth century, even in its last decade, might outdo all the famous "seven wonders of the world" that astonished the ancients? In the first place there is a likelihood that we shall see, before the century closes, a means of transit that will whisk us from New York to Philadelphia in less than an hour and from Philadelphia to Chicago between breakfast and supper time. Experiments have lately been made near Baltimore, which gives good promise that such results will be obtained in the not distant future.

Electric power, on an ordinary railway, with motors and cars of peculiar construction, is the means with which we may hope to travel at a speed of more than a hundred miles an hour. In fact, it is confidently believed by some competent witnesses of the experiments that it will be possible to reach a speed of 250 miles an hour. However it may be as to maximum velocity, we have the indorsement of experts as to the feasibility of running trains more than a hundred miles an hour under the proposed system, without greater risk of derailment than is now experienced at less than half that speed.

While experiments in this line are approaching fruition we hear some astonishing reports of experiments for adapting the principle of the pneumatic tube to passenger transit. This principle is utilized in nearly all our large cities for the transmission of small packets, such as news messages, money, small parcels in the shipping marts, and so on, and it would seem possible, from such results, to reach the acme of passenger transit. In fact it is rather strange that this consummation has been so long delayed.

The idea is not a new one. The writer of these lines traveled in a pneumatic car 25 years ago in the heart of the city of New York. Moses S. Beach, at that time proprietor of the New York Sun, and his brother Alfred, then and now one of the proprietors of the Scientific American, constructed a pneumatic railway under the surface of Broadway, running from Murray to Warren street. The road, or rather the tube, was only about 100 yards long, but the object was to demonstrate the feasibility of pneumatic railways to do the work that afterward fell to the elevated railroads.

The experiment of the Beaches was interesting and costly, but practically nothing more. Cars were run from one end of the tube to the other filled with passengers. It was proved beyond doubt that the pneumatic principle was broad enough to cover passenger transit. But the whole plan was crude and the results unsatisfactory. Many years of experiment were needed to bring the system up to the level of practical usefulness. The "Broadway hole," as it was called by some of the newspapers, was visited by thousands of people, who indulged in the novelty of a short pneumatic excursion, but the scheme was finally abandoned and now nothing but the "hole" is left.

Recent accounts of experiments in Europe, however, give strong hope that the dream of the Messrs. Beach will soon be realized.

Why Women Do Not Marry.

No doubt there are many women—very grand women they are, too—who, like Miss Martineau, refuse to marry for physical considerations—ill health; the fear of hereditary disease; the desire to save the beloved husband that should have been from unnecessary burdens. All honor to such women; they are the silent martyrs. "'Tis better to have loved and lost," etc. Such women are not unhappy. But the sad reason why most women do not marry is because they have not had a chance. When we read that there are 60,000 more unmarried women than men in Massachusetts alone, what shall we say of the rest of the miscalled United States? Mrs. Wells wittily describes some one who had had "half an offer." It is to be feared that some most lovable women have not even reached to that dreadful moment of suspense. It is the "Lost Chord," and deeply to be deplored. It is true that in many a retired village some half dozen very clever, well educated, good women pass their lonely lives with no chance to "better their condition." No wonder that some of them make what their families call very bad marriages. On one point I do agree with Mrs. Wells, when she refers to the horrible literature with which our market is flooded, turning life into a dissecting room. That, indeed, may well frighten a susceptible and nervous woman. It is a shocking wrong and nuisance that popular magazines should publish stories which are read by young girls, enabling them, as Mrs. Wells says, to count "the various kinds of kisses that mark the advent and climax of a lover's regard. Love itself is just as subtle and unselfish as ever it was; passion is as true and noble; but their parasites are deadly." This is a splendid summing up. But I do not agree that such reading makes a girl "love her mother more," or that she "stays at home," growing more helpful, and finding "indefinite interests enough to make single life very pleasant."—[Mrs. John Sherwood, in North American Review.

A Well of Frozen Air.

Near Dayton, Ga., there is a well locally known as the "well of frozen air." In drilling the well a stratum of frozen clay and gravel was encountered at a depth of 55 feet. After passing through five feet of this numerous cavities were encountered from which cold air came in gusts. The escape of the air from the well can be heard roaring for nearly 200 yards. The air which comes from the subterranean depths is so frigid that it is not possible for any one to hold his hand over the opening for more than two minutes without having it frozen. A bucket of water set over the opening will freeze through and through within a few hours. It is needless to add that work was abandoned on the well when the cavities of "frozen air" were tapped.—[Philadelphia Ledger.

Recent Events Worthy of Note.

Murdered for Forty Dollars.

MT. CARMEL, April 17.—Early yesterday morning the horribly mangled body of Joseph Burk, a Polander, was found on the tracks of the Reading railroad between Alaska and Mt. Carmel. An inquest was held this morning, when the body was closely examined, revealing several bruises about the head, made by a blunt instrument. It is believed that the man was first murdered and then placed on the railroad track to avert suspicion. the matter is how in the hands of the police officials and an investigation is being made. It is believed that Burk had about forty dollars in his pocket, having received his pay yesterday, and when found his purse was missing.

This Should be Cabled to Rudini.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., April 15.—About 100 Italians who had struck work on the Pennsylvania company lines at Lawrence Junction, raided a lot of Americans today who had taken their places. The Americans fled and their foreman was seized and thrown into the river, barely escaping with his life. The foreigners threaten trouble if the company puts men to work to-morrow as intended.

Washburne Seems to be Elected.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The official canvass of election returns for Mayor was practically completed to-day in the twenty-nine of the thirty four wards in the city. Taking the official count in these twenty-nine wards and the City Hall unofficial returns for the remaining five wards, the result is a plurality of 1,304 for Washburne, republican, over the democratic incumbent, Cregier.

Postmaster Patton Elected Superintendent.

HARRISBURG, April 16.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Huntingdon Reformatory this afternoon, Major McClaughry superintendent, presented his resignation, which was accepted, and T. B. Patton, of Altoona, was elected to succeed him. Patton will enter upon his new office on May 15, 1891.

Received One Thousand Dollars.

Mrs. Ed. Cassett. widow of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad fireman recently killed at Milesburg by the train wreckers, has been made happy by the receipt of a check for one thousand dollars, bearing the signature of S. S. Blair, superintendent, and coming from the relief fund of the railroad company.

Will Probably Strike

HARRISBURG, April 17.—It is reported to-night that a general strike will be inaugurated at the Pennsylvania steel works on the first of June, when the scale of the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel Workers will be demanded by the men.

Left to General Wiley.

HARRISBURG, April 17.—Governor Pattison's order to General Wiley for a withdrawal of the militia from the coke region left it to the decision of General Wiley, when all or only part of the troops should be recalled.

Taken to New York

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The remains of General Francis B. Spinola, who died Monday, were taken to New York this morning on a special car attached to the 10 o'clock train.

Hanged for Murder.

LAWRENS, S. C., April 17.—Walker Brown was hanged in the jail yard here today for the murder of Noah Romage last October.

Specimen Cases.

S.H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, his Stomach was disordered, his Liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Electric Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight years' standing. Used three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catawaba, O., had five large Fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. one bottle Electric Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely, Sold by C. M. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

BELVERNON, Pa., Nov. 27, '90.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:
Gents—I would like to make known to those who are almost persuaded to use Kendall's Spavin Cure the fact that I think it is a most excellent Liniment. I have used it on a Blood Spavin. The horse went on three legs for three years when I commenced to use your Kendall's Spavin Cure. I used ten bottles on the horse and have worked him for three years since and has not been lame.
Yours truly, WM. A. CURL.

GERMANTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 2, 1889.
DR. B. J. KENDALL CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vt.
Gents: In praise of Kendall's Spavin Cure I will say, that a year ago I had a valuable young horse become very lame, hock enlarged and swollen. The horsemen about here (we have no Veterinary Surgeon here) pronounced his lameness Blood Spavin or Thoroughpin, they all told me there was no cure for it, he became about useless, and I considered him almost worthless. A friend told me of the merits of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, so I bought a bottle, and I could see very plainly great improvements immediately from its use, and before the bottle was used up I was satisfied that it was doing him a great deal of good. I bought a second bottle and before it was used up my horse was cured and has been in the team doing heavy work all the season since last April, showing no more signs of it. I consider your Kendall's Spavin Cure a valuable medicine, and it should be in every stable in the land. Respectfully yours,
EUGENE DEWITT.

TEMPORARY DERANGEMENT

Zeb White, of Julian, Makes a Midnight Trip While in a Fit of Insanity.

Zeb. White is a man upward of 60 years of age who, with his wife and one child, lives in the dwelling house connected with the store room occupied by John C. Henderson in Julian. Mr. Woods, a brother-in-law of Mr. White, lives with him. On Sunday morning about one o'clock the family were awakened from their slumbers by hearing Mr. White prowling around the house.

Upon going to the old gentleman it was at once discovered that he acted very queer and help was sent for. Elmer Henderson, who occupies the room over the store answered the call and on going up stairs found Mr. White standing in the hall arrayed only in his night clothes and declaring his intention of going to see his son Elmer, who lives at the Snow Shoe Intersection.

Henderson and Woods endeavored to detain him but with a wild shriek he tore away from both men and, habited only in his night clothes, he went down the stairs on two jumps and out into the night whence he struck down the railroad as fast as he could run. A neighbor was awakened, a horse hitched in a buggy and chase given but, notwithstanding the fact that the men drove the eight miles from Julian to the Intersection in an hour they never overtook the old gentleman. Mr. White had kept to the railroad and must have run the entire distance. He wakened up his son and when the latter came out Mr. White turned to run away but was caught and held until help arrived when he was taken in and put to bed.

He must have fallen a number of times as he was considerably bruised and skinned up. Mr. White lay all day Sunday in a kind of semi-conscious condition but on Monday afternoon he seemed to have recovered his reason but was still suffering from his midnight flight.

As It Looked.

We have thus far neglected to make mention of the spring opening at the store of Edwin F. Garman. When we say "opening" we do not mean merely a new lot of Spring goods conspicuously displayed, but something which involved days of hard labor before the final grand result was attained. Upon entering their establishment one was almost bewildered by the scene which met the eye. Arches behind arches, draped with exquisite drapery, and easels of all descriptions festooned with lovely china silk, all harmoniously blended, presented an extremely pleasing appearance. Far back in the room was erected a small building the interior of which presented the appearance of an elegantly furnished library. A tall standing lamp stood upon a centre table and cast its effulgent rays over the enchanting compartment. Beautiful mats and druggets thrown carelessly about, added attractiveness to the scene. Ed. is a busy spider and this time he certainly wove a magnificent web into which he enticed many a fashionable butterfly who departed full of admiration of the sight they had witnessed.

The Condition of the Jail.

The work of repairing the county jail will be completed today. New floors, new ceilings, new water closets and all needful repairs have been made and the old place will now seem more habitable than it has heretofore been. Indeed it seems almost miraculous that there has been so little sickness there in the past as there was, as the workmen who made the repairs state that the entire building was terribly foul. Scores of dead rats were found in ceiling and under floors and the stench at times seemed almost unbearable. In addition to this an abundance of other filth had been allowed to accumulate and, owing to the bad arrangement of the plumbing, etc., the atmosphere was always damp and musty. The workmen solemnly aver that they to a considerable degree felt the ill effects of working in the building. We do not wish nor intend to lay the blame on anyone for such a condition of affairs but if the same is not now thoroughly abated the next grand jury should make it their business to persue a minute investigation and report accordingly that the jail may be healthful as well as habitable.

Lego—Nearhoof.

At 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, April 14th, 1891, quite a select company of ladies and gentlemen gathered at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nearhoof, Fowler, Pa., as that was the hour set for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary L. Nearhoof, one of the most beautiful and accomplished young ladies of this section, to Mr. William Lego, a much respected young man of Bald Eagle. Promptly at the hour stated the ceremony was performed by Rev. Geo. Noden. After the happy couple had received the congratulations and valuable gifts of those present all sat down to an elegant marriage feast at which Mr. Harper presided, carving up the fine turkey, in a very graceful and accomplished manner. The happy bride and groom departed for Philadelphia on the late train that evening. May they live long and enjoy much happiness.

Pensioner's Young Wives.

It is very important for young women who are contemplating marriage with a veteran for pension purposes to note that a law has been passed on that subject. By the provisions in the disability act, marriages contracted after last June do not entitle the widows thereof to draw a pension. This is rather rough on the old soldiers, whose chances of getting a young wife are largely reduced, but it will save our posterity several generations hence from such a pension roll as we are carrying on which are twenty-three Revolutionary widows, over one hundred years after the close of the war.

Telephone to Hublersburg.

This morning the telephone company began the stringing of a wire to Hublersburg. The poles have all been put in position and if they have no bad luck Manager Woomer says the line will be up and the people of Hublersburg can talk to Bellefonte by Friday noon. Only one phone will be put in at present and the number of that one will be 603. Thus one by one the outlying county towns are being connected with Bellefonte and it probably wont be many years until every village and hamlet will have the telephone.

You are aware of course that catarrh will become chronic unless checked at once by Old Saul's Catarrh Cure Only 25 cents

"If a numerous household is the safety of the Republic," it might as well be proclaimed at once, that the remedy upon which such household should be reared is Dr Bull's Baby Syrup.

—This is one of the days on which we was to have snow.

Long Talking.

Recently W. L. Malin was interviewed by a reporter of the Altoona Times and thus expressed himself regarding the near approach of the long-distance telephone :

"The long-distance telephone lines will reach Altoona during the coming summer. The service is now complete and in good working order as far west of Williamsport, and when once begun the extensions will be rushed through in a short time.

The lines are now connected with all the prominent cities, and when in good working order a subscriber can carry on a conversation with a person in Philadelphia or New York as readily as they can now to Tyrone. Besides the different construction of the instruments, the long distance differs from the ordinary telephone in that it is necessary to have a complete metallic circuit, or two wires between the stations, while with the single phone one wire and a ground is used. Other fine electrical distinctions are present, but to the average observer the double wire is the only radical change from the ordinary.

The Germ Destroyer.

In the field of discovery and invention, medicine has not kept pace with surgery. That, perhaps, is natural; services surgery is the mechanical branch of medicine. The general acceptance of the germ theory of disease, however, opens a new field for medicine, and will take it completely away from the mediæval superstitions that still cling to its skirts. And yet medicine is not without its discoveries. It has long been known, and the fact is now recognized wherever the test has been made, that Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) will destroy the germs of malarial disease, the microbes of skin disease, and the bacilli of contagious and other forms of blood poisoning, ejects from the blood, and purifies and builds up the system. No medical discovery of our day has achieved such remarkable success.

Good News for Farmers.

By reference to our market reports it will be seen that wheat is now quoted at 95 cents and $1.00 a bushel. Foreign markets quote wheat at from $1.18 to $1.27. This is a sudden and somewhat large advance and the Bellefonte dealers say they expect to have to pay $1.10 in the near future. Oats are away up and rye and corn are higher now than they have been for some time. This sudden raise seems to be substantial and the probability is they will be up until after next harvest. This certainly is good news for the farmer as it not only rates his product higher but also increases the value of his land.

PLEASE READ THIS.

Anybody who may be in need of a monument or tombstone, I would ask them to call and see me before purchasing their work. I have on hand a very large stock of finished and unfinished monuments and tombstones and can get up a stone of most any size or description on short notice. By calling at my yard you can see just what you are getting and you will save at least part of the per centage you would have to pay by buying from an agent. It will not cost you anything to call and see me and I know you can save money. I will convince you that this is correct when you come to see me. Respectfully,

A. M. MOTT.

At the Supreme Court.

Supreme court for this district convened in Philadelphia on Monday. There are a number of cases carried up from this court and the number of attorneys composing Bellefonte's representation in that high tribunal is quite large. Among those who we know to be in attendance are Clement Dale, C. M. Bower, D. S. Keller, D. F. Fortney, John G. Love, J. L. Spangler, W. F. Reeder, J. W. Gephart and C. P Hewes. Goodness! what an array of legal talent. We shouldn't wonder if the supreme court be taken by storm.

Will Visit Bellefonte.

On Monday, April 27th, Rt. Rev. Nelson Sommerville Rulison, Asst. Bishop of the Central Pennsylvania Diocese of St. John's Episcopal church, will visit Bellefonte and will hold ordination service in the Episcopal church in the evening at 7.30 o'clock.

If you want a position, on salary, expenses paid, see advertisement on page seventh, headed "A Chance to Make Money."

Two Interesting Items.

Ed. Chambers, Esq., of Bellefonte, deputy revenue collector and member of the Centre county bar, was in this city yesterday and last night, stopping at the Fallon House. Mr. C. frequently comes here in the pursuit of his vocation as a revenue official and expresses the opinion that Lock Haven in dry weather is a very delightful town. Right, Edward—go up head.

C. H. Bressler, pressman of The Democrat office and past captain of the S. of V., went to Lemont, Centre county, this morning to inspect a camp of the order at that place. Captain Bressler stands high in the organization and will doubtless give the Lemont camp advantageous instruction, especially considering the near approach of a war with Italy. The past captain is a faithful, meritorious and industrious young man and should the tug of war ever come would doubtless make as good a soldier as he is compositor and pressman.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Protect Your Health.

Cold and moisture combined have a torporizing effect upon the bodily organs and the digestive and secretive processes are apt to be more tardily performed in winter than in the fall. The same is true, also, of the excretory functions. The bowels are often sluggish, and the pores of the skin throw off but little waste matter at this season. The system, therefore, requires opening up a little, and also purifying and regulating, and the safest, surest and most thorough tonic and alterative that can be used for these purposes is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persons who wish to escape the rheumatic twinges, the dyspeptic agonies, the painful disturbances of the bowels, the bilious attacks, and the nervous visitations, so common at this time of the year, will do well to reinforce their systems with this renowned vegetable stomachic and invigorant. It improves the appetite, strengthens the stomach, cheers the spirits, and renovates the whole physique.

A Wonderful Picture Paper.

It is not surprising that in over 100,000 households Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper is regularly found. This week's first page presents the first of a series of pictures of "Representative Railway Men;" Barnum's funeral has a page; the retirement of Edwin Booth, the actor, is signalized by nine pictures of him in various characters; the amateur photographic page is excellent; the Pennsylvania strike has a page, and Carlsbad (Austria), the most noted health resort in the world, has a page and four columns of intensely interesting descriptive matter. Get it of your newsdealer for ten cents.

A Special Train.

The Buffalo Run railroad will run a special train to and from State College on Friday evening, the 24th, it being the occasion of the reception given by the Senior Class. The train will leave the P. R. R. depot in this place for the College at 6 30 o'clock p. m., and returning will leave State College after the reception is over, thus giving Bellefonte an opportunity to enjoy it all.

—Very little was done at council on Monday night save and except to enter into a lengthy discussion, on the purchasing of a new pump question. No decision on this matter, however, wrs reached, owing to the uncertain condition of the borough finances. The Finance committee are investigating that matter today and on the report they may make hangs the possibility of a new pump.

Millinery Opening.

On Wednesday, April 22nd, Miss Mary R. Graham will open to the trade of Bellefonte and vicinity a full line of carefully selected stock of spring and summer millinery including the latest Philadelphia and New York styles. An experienced trimmer will trim all hats to your satisfaction. Remember the day and date, Wednesday, April 22nd. The public at large invited to call.

AFTER THE SNOW AND SHROUD.

What if we all lay dead below—
Lay as the grass lies, cold and dead
In God's own holy shroud of snow,
With snow-white stones set foot and head
With all earth dead and shrouded white
As clouds that cross the moon at night?

What if that infidel some night
Could then rise up and see how dead,
How wholly dead and out of sight,
All things with snows sown foot and head.
And lost winds wailing up and down
The emptied fields and emptied town?

I think that grand old infidel
Would rub his hands with fiendish glee,
And say: "I knew it, knew it well!
I knew that death was destiny;
I ate, I drank, I mocked at God;
Then as the grass was, and the sod."

Ah me, the grasses and the sod,
They are my preachers. Hear them preach,
When they forgot the shroud, and God
Lifts up these blades of grass to teach
The resurrection! Who shall say
What infidel can speak as they?

—[Joaquin Miller in The Independent.

THE MORNING GLORY.

Once upon a time, somewhere, in Somebody's garden, there grew a Morning Glory vine. Nobody kenw how it came there, for no one had planted it, but it was a pretty little thing, with green hearts for leaves and cunning little pale green curls here and there upon its fuzzy stem.

She wanted to get up off of the ground where she had been all of her short life, so she crept slowly along to find something to take hold of, that she might climb high up into the bright sunlight. She put out her tender tendrils and felt carefully along, for she was blind, poor little thing, and could not see where she was going.

As she reached out she felt something hard. "Ah, perhaps this is something high," thought the Morning Glory, so she crawled up the side quite to the top, but she was not high at all—not much higher than the ground—for it was only a small stone that she had found; so she sadly crept back down the other side, and she lay there quite discouraged.

There was an old man who used to take care of Somebody's garden, and he saw this plant growing there and groping about for a support, so he fastened a string from a peg stuck into the ground up to Somebody's window sill, and then he quite forgot all about it.

The next morning the Morning Glory felt more cheerful, and she started upon her search again. She had not far to go this time, because the kind old man had fastened the peg very near to where she lay; so she reached about with caution to avoid another stone, and took hold of the string.

The poor, sightless little thing did not know that the old man had put it there for her, but somehow she felt that it would lead her where she so wished to go—up toward the beautiful sky and the great golden sun.

So she climbed along the string, slowly at first, then faster each day as she began to know the way, until, like Jack's beanstalk, she had reached the window sill.

Now Somebody, the person who owned the garden, was ill; so ill that he had to stay always in his room with an ugly black bandage over his eyes, and the doctors feared that he might never see again.

He was very unhappy, and was often—oh, so very!—cross; and the servants quite feared him when he spoke to them in a harsh and authoritative voice.

He had no relatives, and he lived quite alone in his great house, with many people to wait upon him and with ever so much money to buy thing to make him happy. But the things that one buys do not always make one happy, and he was terribly wretched in his big, fine house.

One morning he groped his way to the open window and put his hand out upon the side of the frame, and he felt a little, sharp nail. Now, if he had been gentle the nail would not have hurt him, for it was a harmless little thing; but he made a rough, impatient movement, and it caught his finger and bruised it a little.

This made Somebody very angry, and he said some very unpleasant things about the person who dared to put a nail outside his window, and he felt about, very cautiously this time, to find the nail once more, that he might tear it out.

So he moved his hand slowly along upon the sill, and the Morning Glory was reaching her little hand about there at the same time, and their two hands met.

One did not look at all like a hand, but it was one just the same, and the little green hand grasped the great white one and they seemed to know and to understand each other at once, for the little green hand said to the large white one very tenderly: "Oh! so you are blind, too! I am so sorry!"

The great hand did not try to find the nail after that; it just touched the Morning Glory with a soft caress and two great drops fell upon her leaves. They felt strangely and not at all like the cool rain drops which sometimes watered the Morning Glory, and something told her that these drops were tears.

Now, after this, these two—Somebody and the Morning Glory—grew to love each other very dearly, and each day they would feel about for one another, and the dainty Morning Glory would nestle against his bearded cheek and Somebody would pet her and stroke her leaves very gently.

And the cheerful hopefulness of the little green plant helped Somebody to be a little bit hopeful, too. You see it was harder for him, for he had not always been blind, while she had never seen, and was so used to it that now she hardly minded it at all.

One morning the Morning Glory brought her friend a surprise. She had kept it a secret all the while, and now she proudly put a great, beautiful pink blossom into his hand. He could not see that it was pink, but he felt that it was lovely, and he kissed the pretty flower and murmured, "You little beauty;" and that made the Morning Glory very happy, for all mothers dearly love to have their babies admired, you know.

And the next morning Somebody had a surprise for the Morning Glory. That was a secret, too. No one knew it yet but the doctor, and Somebody drew the little morning Glory close to his lips and whispered into her ear. Then the little green hand twined about the great white one and this is what it said: "I am so glad that you are not going to be blind any more." And Somebody understood it, and the Morning Glory again felt two great warm drops which she knew to be tears, but they were not like the first ones; they were very sweet, because they were tears of joy.

After this Somebody went away and was gone a long time. The weeks passed and he did not return, and the little Morning Glory was very sad; she felt hurt that he had left her so suddenly and with no word of adieu.

Everything was in a state of great bustle and preparation all over the place. Little Morning Glory could hear them hammering and running about, and she felt that something was going to happen. Once she caught the word "bride," and something told her what it all meant, and a little jealous pain went through her heart, for she had once overheard the housemaid telling the cook that all men were fickle, and that when they were away from one they never thought of one at all, and were taken up with whoever was nearest them, and the cook had agreed fully with all that the housemaid had said; and the cook knew men if any one did, she said.

So little Morning Glory hung her leaves in sadness and quite forgot to feel proud of her pretty pink babies—for there were a great many of them now.

Once she felt something tug at her roots and a rough hand grasped her; then a kind voice said, "Don't touch that; master loved the little vine, and it must be left as it is." Oh! how relieved little Morning Glory felt at these words. She reached out and tried to touch the speaker, but the maid hurried away and never saw the little green hands at all.

Soon the nights began to be chilly, and one by one her babies left her and fluttered to the ground, and she herself grew pale and felt very weak and ill, and she feared that she was going to die. How she wished that Somebody would come back; she was afraid that he would be too late.

One morning she heard the window open, and Somebody again stood there; there was some one with him now, a beautiful lady, and he held her in his arms and called her "Sweetheart." In his new happiness he had quite forgotten his little friend; and Morning Glory's heart ached as she remembered what the maid had told the cook.

Just then Somebody looked out and saw poor little Morning Glory with her leaves all faded and brown, and he reproached himself because he had not thought of her before.

"Here, dearest," he said to the lady, "this is the little friend I told you of, and he laid the withered little stem in the lady's delicate hand.

A glad thrill ran through the Morning Glory, and she dropped 60 tiny seeds into the soft open palm; then as the wind swept around the corner a sudden shudder seized her, and little Morning Glory was dead.

"See! my pet," said Somebody, pointing to the little black seeds, "that means good luck; it is her gift to the bride."

And the beautiful lady smiled and she put the seeds in a little box, saying, "Next year we will have another Morning Glory vine there just like the old one."

"No," said Somebody, "never one quite like that, for that one was like a little friend; it really seemed to understand me. But then I don't need any one to understand me now, for I have you," and again the lady was folded in a loving embrace and Somebody kissed her softly.—[Marie Moore March.

A DREADFUL DISCLOSURE.

Five Women Have Treatment for Corns on Their Feet to One Man.

"Probably not one young man in a hundred, when he dreams of his lady love, ever thinks of her as having corns," said a young chiropodist the other day to a New York Herald reporter, as he deftly finished some professional attention to the reporter's little toe and gently murmured, "That will be 50 cents, please."

"At the same time," continued the pedacure, "it is a fact that we have five women who come here to have their tootsey wootseys attended to where we have one man who needs our services. I have seen young girls with angel faces come in here as often as once a week for months. Their complexions are perfect, and among them are some of the loveliest young girls I ever saw.

"It would seem to be almost a profanation to imagine for an instant that such lovely creatures should have corns. Yet the feet of some of these young women are enough to make a Venus de Milo turn over in her grave. The poor little toes are pressed together and oftentimes distorted out of shape, and by the time I have finished my work and have wound strips of plaster about them, besides putting little wads of circular pieces of cotton batting between my lady's toes, they present a sufficiently droll appearance.

"It would be impossible to get a girl to walk along a beach in summer in such a plight, and it is no wonder the dear creatures wear stockings when they bathe in public."

Sarah Bernhardt's Mausoleum.

A curious fact about Sarah Bernhardt is that she has caused a most sumptuous tomb to be prepared in Pere la Chaise for her own obsequies. It is all in white marble, with the one word "Bernhardt" inscribed above the portal. Within there is space for a single coffin only. The great actress desires to be alone after death as she has been unapproachable in her genius during her life. Every year on her birthday she visits this tomb and lays upon it a wreath of immortelles. Some one asked her why she did so. "Because," she said, "I would like to have my grave decorated with flowers after my death, and perhaps if I accustom people to see it so adorned they will follow my example and keep up the custom when I am no more." Is there not something piteous in this clinging of the most famous actress of her generation to the fleeting memories of those she will leave behind her?—[Paris Letter to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mrs. Crawford says of the ex-Empress Eugenie: "I think her profile, from an esthetic standpoint, more beautiful than in the triumphant phase of her strange life, because of the purifying effect of sorrow and, I doubt not, contrition. Its harmony is marvelous."

Ned Buntline, one of the most rapid writers of novels and sketches (of which he was the author of between 300 and 400), is said to have once earned $11,500 in six weeks by hard writing. Sir Walter Scott received $40,000 for "Woodstock," the work of three months.

Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, the novelist, is still writing, though over 75 years of age. As to her full name, which is Emma Dorothy Eliza Neuette Southworth, she says: "When I was born my people were too poor to give me anything else, so they gave me all those names."

The widow of Jacob Thompson, who was Secretary of the Interior under Buchanan, and who was a prominent political figure in Mississippi, leaves the bulk of her estate, which is valued at nearly $1,000,000, to a granddaughter, Mrs. Kate Thompson Kirkman, the wife of Van H. Kirkman, of Nashville.

A Boston puzzle editor printed a facsimile of Jay Gould's signature and asked his readers to guess whose it was. Among the persons to whom the autograph was credited were T. Reed, Ingersoll, Ike Weir, Baron Hirsch, H. Greeley, Jubal Early, and Inspector Byrnes. Six experts in handwriting guessed the riddle.

Sankey, the evangelist, has written a book containing an account of how some of his most famous gospel songs were written, and incidents connected with their conception. Mayor Pettibone, of Cincinnati, says that notwithstanding the profound peace which this country enjoys, that city alone turns out on an average 10,000 regular army swords every year. The finest swords in Cincinnati were a complete outfit for the late King Kalakaua and his retinue. Swords range in price from $8 to $500.

Almost fabulous reports come from Asheville, N. C., with regard to the work which is being done by George Vanderbilt on his estate near there. The natural beauties of the place are being enhanced by every artificial effect that money can buy, and the $400,000 already spent on the mansion and grounds is said to be only a part of the proposed outlay.

Princess Elizabeth, of Hesse, Queen Victoria's granddaughter, has joined the Greek Church, though it was specially agreed when she married the Grand Duke Sergius, of Russia, that she should not give up the faith in which she had been reared. Notwithstanding her assurance that she had taken the step of her own free will, much irritation is felt both at Windsor and Berlin.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines.

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's.

Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers.

Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

NEW POLAR EXPEDITION.

THE DANGEROUS EFFORT TO BE TRIED AGAIN.

A Norwegian Explorer Who Will Try to Get There in Five Years—Uncle Sam Will Also Make Another Effort—An Overland Route.

The efforts to discover the North Pole will be abandoned only when this real or imaginary point is discovered. For 200 years brave and adventurous souls have sacrificed comfort, health, and life itself in the quest of this elusive spot, only to be met with disaster and utter failure. And yet the spirit of enterprise, the desire for exploration, are not subdued. The determination to penetrate this unknown place is as stubborn and persistent as if danger and privation and death had not attended all former attempts. Nothing in previous expeditions holds out any prospect of success; the survivors of those other journeys are yet alive to tell the harrowing tale of the awful desolation of that desert of ice and snow, but they can not daunt the hardy and adventurous men who still cherish the hope of final success.

Two expeditions for this purpose are now in the midst of preparations, buoyant with hope, confident of success, willing to hazard all risks. One of these will start from Norway in June, under the command of Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, a distinguished Norwegian explorer. He is preparing for an absence of five years. His ship will weigh 170 tons and will be so constructed that when struck by great masses of ice it will be forced out of the water to the top of the mass. It will be manned by a crew of eight men and fully equipped for the long journey. Dr. Nansen will sail straight through Bering Strait into the Arctic Ocean, and then follow the current. He believes that a current runs from the coast of Siberia into an open polar sea. His reason for this belief is that after the ill fated Jeannette was abandoned on the north Bering coast, near the mouth of the river Lena, articles believed to belong to this ship were picked up on the west coast of Greenland. Dr. Nansen's theory is that they got into this Siberian current, were carried toward the pole, and then down through Baffin's Bay to the western shores of Greenland. It will be remembered that various scientific societies in Europe have discouraged Dr. Nansen's theories, but he will proceed with his expedition, and we shall hear of him no more for five years, if ever.

The second expedition is of a very different nature. It is under the direction of Engineer Robert E. Peary, of the United States Navy, who has obtained leave of absence for 18 months, commencing May 1. He will conduct his expedition overland through Greenland in a northeasterly direction. Three or four men will comprise the party, and they will travel with dogs and sledges. Mr. Peary has previously explored in Greenland, and he is quite certain that these great ice plateaus form the safest and surest route to the North Pole. He feels sure that he will reach the northern limits of the land and find a sea of solid ice, upon which he will continue to travel. His plan meets the approval of Engineer Melville and other Arctic explorers. The cost of this expedition will be borne by geographical and scientific societies. In the latter case it will not be impossible to follow the party up with a rescuing expedition, as has been necessary in all previous attempts at explorations.

What lies in that impenetrable beyond is for the imagination alone to depict. It may be only an endless expanse of ice and snow, with nothing to repay the tremendous exertion of finding it except the satisfaction of a universal curiosity. But there has always existed a vision of an open sea, an equable climate, vegetation, and it has even been dreamed that a race of people might live in this wonderland. And restless, daring, inquiring humanity will continue its research to the end of time, or until all the mystery is solved.

Teaching Your Dog.

The easiest trick to teach a dog is jumping. First put the learner into a corner, and make a bar of a stick—a cane will answer the purpose—so that he can not get out of the corner except by jumping over it. Do this until he jumps over the stick without hesitation, when you may gradually raise the height of the bar any required distance from the floor. After the trick has been learned in the corner, it may be tried in the center of the room. Later on you may make a hoop of your arms and teach your pupil to jump through it, and after a while a real hoop. Possibly one that is covered with tissue paper may be substituted with good results.

Another easy trick is sitting up. As in the first trick, begin in a corner. Place the pupil in a sitting pose, so that his back finds support against the walls, and by tapping him lightly under the chin force him to sit up. After some practice he can do this without much effort. Now accustom him to sit up without any back support. It is harder to make a dog stand erect than to do either of the two tricks just described. As before, it should be begun in the corner. If the learner tries to come down upon all fours before his lesson is over tap his chin and the bottom of his forepaws with the whip.

When he can stand erect he should be taught to walk. This is done by holding out a piece of meat or some dainty morsel on a level with his mouth, and then slowly backing away from him so as to induce him to follow. After he has walked a few steps tell him to stand on his four feet and give him the bait that you have encouraged him with.

Let me say here that you should never let your dog come to the end of any trick without commanding him to do so. It should never be left to a dog's own judgment to bring a performance to a close. You should be the master of ceremonies all the way through—at the end as well as at the beginning of the show. Never exercise your pupil for too long a time at a stretch. You may weary him and make him dread the lesson hour.—[Dr. Glover, in Harper's Young People.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

THEY SAY

That this is the season of the year when the potted plants want the earth.

That the sporting young man is now watching the score of the National game.

That teachers and scholars are correspondingly happy over the close of the schools.

That men who stand in the way of needed improvements can hardly be regarded as good citizens.

That lemons are used more among ladies for cleaning their hands than for toning their stomachs.

That the measure of a man's real character is what he would do if he knew it would never be found out.

That the only present a Clearfield man gave his recently married daughter was a receipted bill for the gas consumed during her long courtship.

That Messrs. Fow, Richmond, Brooks and Fletcher have organized a glee club in the Legislature. "Listen to My Tale of Woe" is their popular air.

That one of the prettiest girls exclaimed, "I like your cheek!" when her beau kissed her at parting the other night. "So do I like yours, but I greatly prefer your mouth," was the reply as he smacked her on the lips.

That to a venerable father, Duffey exhibited a fine photograph of his son. "Yes," he replied, "it looks like him, but has he paid for them yet?" "No," replied the photographer. "Well, that is more like him," responded the father.

That when trees begin to blossom and the violets to bloom; when the bull-frogs in the meadow warble boom-ah-boom-ah-boom; when ducks are flying northward and bright butterflies are out, and robins go to housekeeping in the broken water spout; when grasshoppers are hopping and black bats come out at night, and venture in your bedroom attracted by the light; when birds fly down the chimneys, and hens walk in the door, and beetles hold convention in the centre of the floor; when the mud is o'er your shoe tops at each crossing you will stand, you may count on it as certain that sweet spring is near at hand.

Look here, Friend, are You Sick?

Do you suffer from Dyspepsia, Indigestion Sour Stomach, Liver Complaint, Nervousness, Lost Appetite, Billiousness, Exhaustion or tired feeling, Pains in Chest or Lungs, Dry Cough, Night-sweats, Nervous Debility, or any form of Consumption? If so, send to Prof. Hart, 88 Warren St., New York, who will send you free, by mail, a bottle of medicine which is a sure cure. Send to-day. d&w-tf

Want Free Right of Way.

The Sugar Valley Journal says. "Wm. F. Shay, attorney and solicitor for the Bellefonte & Eastern Railway, was in Loganton on Tuesday and Wednesday, looking after the interests of that corporation. He says the company is now ready to build this road and will commence the work of construction as soon as a free right of way is secured."

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box.

Haag's License Again

Argument court was held on Thursday and a number of cases came up for argument. Also the question of the license application of Gotlieb Haag was again discussed, this time in very heated language by the attorneys on both sides. It is said that W. C. Heinle, Esq., got mad and that D. F. Fortney, Esq., followed suit, the latter almost giving away party secrets in an accusation made about using whiskey on election day last fall.

How preposterous? Who ever heard of a chairman using whiskey to electioneer with, or of any person drinking on election day? That might have been done years and years ago, but to intimate that such a thing would be done now, in these enlightened days, when we have free rights and free ballot. But then the speakers furnished a little amusement for the spectators and, as to the license, it has not yet been granted.

At this season of the year when malaria lurks in the air, and bad colds not an unfrequent visitor, we long for a quick and effective remedy. There is scarcely a home without a sufferer from some of the many ills the flesh is heir to. A stimulant is after the intermediator. It is quick and effective. It brings relief and saves doctors bills. We can reccommend Mr. Max Klein for anything in the liquor line. His silver age Rye at $1,50 per quart is the best whiskey in the market. He will sell any Pennsylvania Rye Whiskey six years old, at 1.00 for each quart or six for $5.00. Send for his price list and catalogue and mention this paper.
Address MAX KLEIN,

A New Revenue Collector.

It is not very often that any man likes to be superceeded yet it nevertheless is a fact that on Sunday a new deputy collector arrived at the home of Mr. E. R. Chambers, on East Linn street and, according to reports of those who know, was made welcome by Ed. Thus far we have not heard whether the latter intends resigning his collectorship in favor of the stranger or not, but we are inclined to think that a compromise will be effected by a sort of partnership arrangement. Fix it as they may we tender congratulations to all parties.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease 'Comsumption," is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing, will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILTON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

—That was considerable of a blow on Saturday afternoon but the rain that followed was most delightful and very beneficial to early vegetation. Johnny Bair says he sat at the window five minutes and saw his lettuce grow three inches; of course, it is to be supposed that the soil in Johnny's garden is unusually good—it must be, you know.

Aunt Rachel's Horehound and Elecampane.

There are thousands of cases on record where persons suffering from consumption have been completely cured by the use of Aunt Rachel's Horebound Herb, Elecampane Root, and Speer's Grape Juice, and persons are willing to-day to testify to the miraculous cures wrought for them by this pleasant and most effective remedy. For sale by druggists.

—James McQuead, one of the oldest and most widely known residents of Sinking Valley, died on Saturday from pneumonia. Mr. McQuead was an old Centre countian, having been born in Spring Mills in October, 1821.

Presbytery of Huntingdon.

The Huntingdon Presbytery closed its session at Philipsburg on Thursday. In the matter of opposing the seating of Prof. Briggs in the chair of Biblical Theology the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That inasmuch as the General Assembly in 1883 declared that "The denial of the authority and truthfulness of the Holy Scriptures is a denial of their inspiration and any teaching that suggests such denial should be not only carefully avoided, but studiously repelled," and in as much as Prof. C. A. Briggs, D. D., recently appointed Professor of Biblical Theology in Union Theological Seminary, in his inaugural address, expresses opinions believed to be in conflict with the infallibility of the Holy Scriptures and in conflict with the Confession of Faith, the Presbytery of Huntingdon respectfully overtures the General Assembly that his election to said Professorship be not approved by the Assembly.

The statistical reports from the Churches were read, showing most encouraging growth in many of the Churches—those deserving of special mention are Altoona First, 64; Altoona Second, 134; Altoona Third, 74; Kylertown, 33; Irvona, 41, and Coalport, 25.

Many liberal contributions were also reported, and only a few Churches reported salaries of Pastors unpaid.

The report of the Committee on Presbyterial Missions and Supplies created a lively discussion, because some Ministers' salaries were made so much larger than others by its appropriations, but it was finally adopted. Following its adoption the following was adopted, which will come up at next meeting of Presbytery.

Resolved, That the Committee on Presbyterial Missions and Supplies be instructed to make their appropriations so that no salary shall exceed $900 till the lowest salary shall reach at least $750.

The fall meeting of the Presbytery is to be held in McVeytown in October.

About Drinking Soldiers.

The United States government is doing a great injury to many of our old soldiers through the present pension system—by pensioning a certain class of invalid soldiers. It furnishes them from $8 to $50 per month, and as soon as they get their money they go on a spree and drink it up in a few days, all that Uncle Sam has given them, and thus neglect their families, while the husband and father is drinking up the money given them for their maintenance.

As soon as his money is gone he then goes home sick and has to be nursed back to health by the wife he neglected. It would be wise in Uncle Sam to make some provision by which the pension of the soldier who drinks to excess should be paid to the wife. Such drinking soldiers should not be helped by the government—the whole pension should go to the family.

It is claimed by the pension bureau that a soldier of vicious habits, such as drinking to excess, aggravates his disability, and the pension department would stop his pension. They should enforce this rule. There are many old soldiers in this county who drink up all their pensions and neglect their families, leaving them to the mercy of neighbors to see that they are provided for, while he is spending his pension in debauchery, and Uncle Sam is aiding him to do so. ONE WHO KNOWS.

You are in a Bad Fix.

But we will cure you if you pay us. Men who are Weak Nervous and Debilitated, suffering from nervous debility, Seminal Weakness, and all the effects of early Evil Habits, or later indiscretions, which lead to Premature Decay, Consumption or Insanity, should send for and read the "Book of Life," giving particulars of Home Cure. Sent (sealed) free, by addressing Dr. Parker's Medical and Surgical Institute, 151 North Spruce St., Nashville, Tenn. They guarantee a cure or no pay,—The Sunday Morning s10-1y-d&w.

Mr. and Mrs. George White are rejoicing over the arrival of an eleven pound boy, which made its appearance on Wednesday. George says he will raise them all up to be either soldiers or sailors and then when they get old they can draw a pension from Uncle Sam.

Unionville Items.

The few nice days we have had has put the ground in condition for planting, so the farmers are busy and early garden seeds are being put in.

Miss Nannie Lovell, a sister of George Lovell the commercial agent, died on the morning of the 14th after a brief illness.

L. B. Bathurst is ill with the grip and many other cases of same diseases are reported.

E. M. Lucas has retired from the hotel business and moved into a house owned by W. P. Fisher near the depot.

Harry Hoover will move from the farm on Dix run to this place where he will engage in the hotel business.

T. E. Griest is having a veranda put up along the southeast side of his home. J. C. Smith has removed many of his old out-buildings and will now enlarge his house and make general improvements.

C. Buck has completed his work at the Virginia tannery and returned to his home in this place.

Miss Florence Cleaver will open a primary school on the 27th in a private school room on Main street.

Our borough fathers are having some of the streets scraped and the mud hauled off with a view of putting on gravel.

J. Cleaver has just completed an extensive survey for the Pittsburg Safe Deposit Company in the counties of Blair and Centre. J.

Fillmore Fumbles.

The farmers of this vicinity are all busy ploughing. Indeed, some of them are talking of planting corn.

Quite a serious accident occurred to little Ellis Huey on Tuesday. A tin cup of boiling water had been placed on the table. The little boy pulled it over scalding his face and breast badly. At this writing he is resting easy.

William Hunsinger, who has been lumbering at Richey, Clinton county, has returned home.

Miss Laura Kephart and her father were fishing last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Johnson, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday with friends in this place.

Mr. John Blair departed on Wednesday for Ohio. Success, John.

A.

Hicklen—Peters.

As announced in Thursday's DAILY NEWS there was a wedding on Willow Bank street Thursday evening, the contracting parties being Mr. C. K. Hicklen and Miss Rhoda Peters, daughter of Mrs. Mary Peters. Mr. A. B. Kline was the groom's best man and Miss Annie Peters, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The wedding march was played by Miss Kate Olewine. Rev. W. A. Houck performed the ceremony. Outside of the relatives only about one dozen persons were present. The happy couple departed on the 8.49 train for a trip to Niagara Falls, through New York State and to points in the east. They will be away about one week. Congratulations.

Eight Years in Japan.

Rev. J. Hortzler, presiding elder of the Evangelical church, will lecture in the Bellefonte Evangelical church, on Friday evening, April 24th, at eight o'clock p. m. Subject: "Eight years in Japan." The lecture is an intensely interesting one and everybody should hear it. Admission 35 cents, children 15 cents. Doors open at 7.30. Proceeds for benefit of the new church.

Strange Fatality.

David Wooomer, the railroad brakeman, who was hurt at Port Matilda on Friday night dying on Saturday morning, was the last of three brothers, all of whom were railroad men and all of whom were killed inside of the past three months.

—Some of Bellefonte's grocers say they could get strawberries and be able to sell them for 30 cents a box. Why don't they get them is what we would like to know. Surely strawberries at 30 cents a box could readily be sold in Bellefonte.

Delayed Fishing Yarns

On Tuesday a certain official in Bellefonte worked all day in the garden in order to induce his better half to get up early next morning and get his breakfast that he might go trout fishing. The programme was carried out and the man started at five o'clock in the morning, having first spent four dollars for a pair of gum boots, and several more dollars for the necessary et cetera. He walked several miles and fished until nine o'clock and didn't even get a bite. Not to be outdone, he went fishing for suckers in the evening and thus far we have not heard whether he caught any or not.

Chas. T. Noll fished all Wednesday morning, in the afternoon and at supper time had not even seen a fish but not to be discouraged with trifles, he went out again in the evening.

Lou. McQuiston caught the largest trout seen on Wednesday. It was eighteen inches long and six broad and weighed a little less than ten pounds.

Protect Your Health.

Cold and moisture combined have a torporizing effect upon the bodily organs and the digestive and secretive processes are apt to be more tardily performed in winter than in the fall. The same is true, also, of the excretory functions. The bowels are often sluggish, and the pores of the skin throw off but little waste matter at this season. The system, therefore, requires opening up a little, and also purifying and regulating, and the safest, surest and most thorough tonic and alterative that can be used for these purposes is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Persons who wish to escape the rheumatic twinges, the dyspeptic agonies, the painful disturbances of the bowels, the bilious attacks, and the nervous visitations, so common at this time of the year, will do well to reinforce their systems with this renowned vegetable stomachic and invigorant. It improves the appetite, strengthens the stomach, cheers the spirits, and renovates the whole physique.

Probable Fatal Colliery Accident.

ASHLAND, Pa., April 15.—A serious accident occurred at the Locust Gap colliery shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon by which two men were perhaps fatally and six others seriously injured. Those seriously injured are: Frederick Stahl, Thomas Farrell, Matthew Sarvitch, John Telisco, Peter Duffy and Michael Boniski. John and Felix Vrosko, two brothers, were so badly injured that they are lying at the miner's hospital nearly dead. The men were assending the slope in a cage used for the purpose of carrying men up and down, and when one hundred and thirty yards from the bottom the car became detached and dashed to the bottom, with the above results.

New Try This.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a cough, cold, or any trouble with throat, chest or lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to give relief, or money will be paid back. Sufferers from La Grippe found it just the thing and under its use had a speedy and perfect recovery. Try a sample bottle at our expense and learn for yourself just how good a thing it is. Trial bottles free at C. M. Parrish's Drug Store. Large size 50c. and $1.00.

I. O. O. F. Celebration.

Excursion tickets to Jersey Shore and return will be placed on sale at all ticket stations on the Beech Creek railroad April 25th to 27th, inclusive, good to return on or before the 28th.

These tickets will be issued at a very low rate of fare for round trip, and are for the accommodation of those who desire to attend the celebration of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, to be held at Jersey Shore on the 27th inst.

—The postoffice at Hannah was discontinued on Thursday and postmaster G. M. Marks relieved. All mail matter for that section will now be distributed from Port Matilda.

Fencing the Road

Last summer the Pennsylvania railroad company commenced the job of fencing the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe branch with wire fence and succeeded in getting about twelve miles of it fenced. Now this spring they have already gone to work. Mr. R. H. Houser has the contract and he is now stationed at Glen Harris with a force of six men and is fencing out to intersect the other end. Mr. Houser says it is a lonely country out there, being only one house for a distance of twelve miles. The scenery is grand, however, and the trout fishing good, and there is good prospects of a large huckleberry crop and this will fully compensate for the lack of company. After the Snow Shoe branch is all fenced up Mr. Houser will fence the Bald Eagle from Unionville to Bellefonte.

Costly Presents to Boys.

The enterprising managers of Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, Messrs. Arkell & Harrison, propose to distribute safety bicycles, double-barreled, breechloading shotguns, photographic outfits, and fishing outfits to the boys of America. Any boy who wants to know how to get one of these presents should send his address at once to Harry A. Ely, Manager of Subscription Department of Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, 110 Fifth Avenue, New York city. Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper this week is crowded with beautiful illustrations and interesting reading-matter. Get it at your newstand. 10 cents. Printed in English and German.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

"Painless Childbirth," our new book, tells how any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. Also, how to treat and overcome morning sickness, swelled limbs and other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable, and highly endorsed by physicians as the wife's true private companion. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars and confidential letter in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Md.

Only Four More

Manager A. S. Garman informs us that there will be just four more attractions at the opera house ere the season closes. They will be as follows: George Adams, in "He, She, Him, Her," on the 23rd.

"One of the Finest." on May 5.

The Noss Family, in their musical comedy, "A Quick Match," on May 7th.

"Inshavoge," an Irish drama May 12.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

They Were Arrested

On Thursday Capt. Simler, of Philipsburg, arrested Caesar and Charlie Laforte, of Osceola, for putting an obstruction on the railroad track with a view to wrecking a train. The deed was done about the 24th of February. The boys had a hearing and the evidence against them was very conclusive. In default of $1,000 bail they were committed to jail.

Consumption Surely Cured.

To THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above-named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl St., N. Y.

Busy wives who use SAPOLIO never seem to grow old. Try a cake...

A complete wreck of domestic happiness has often resulted from badly washed dishes, from an unclean kitchen, or from trifles which seemed light as air. But by these things a man often judges of his wife's devotion to her family, and charges her with general neglect when he finds her careless in these particulars. Many a home owes a large part of its thrifty neatness and its consequent happiness to SAPOLIO.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

CHILDREN'S FASHIONS—LITTLE GIRLS' DRESSES—COTTON FABRICS—CLEOPATRA CLOTH.

Children's dress has changed wonderfully of late years, and where gingham, dotted muslin, or piqne was once employed, surah, China silk and other handsome materials are now substituted. Boys clothing is quite as elaborate and varied as that of girls, ahd kilts are now discarded for knickerbockers at three years of age. White flannel suits are very popular, set off by neckties of the gayest colors, with blouse of white silk or embroidered muslin. A handsome suit for a boy of six, is of black velveteen, with Toredor jacket, richly braided in silk with slashed sleeves, laced up with gilt cord and tassel, over a blouse of very fine embroidered muslin, with double frill down the front and deep cuffs to match. The knickerbocker pants are slashed at the sides and laced with cord and tassel. A second stylish suit is in pearl-gray French broadcloth, with jacket pointed in the back and trimmed with silver soustache braid and silver buttons. An anchor worked in silver thread, ornaments each side of the front, and a deep sailor collar gives finish. The blouse is of white pongee silk, tucked and edged with lace, and three silver buttons are placed on the outside of the pants. Black silk stockings and patent leather shoes complete this beautiful suit.

FOR LITTLE GIRLS

the latest styles show longer waists and decidedly shorter skirts, and as a natural result, sashes will gain in popularity. A beautiful white surah dress for a little girl from three to six, has several rows of hemstiching around the skirt, done by hand, the yoke and sleeve hemstitched to match and edged with very fine lace. Another of white China silk, shows four or five rows of feather stitching, and a beautiful accessory to fine dresses is gilt and silver braiding with buttons to match. As an outcome of the special attention paid to children's dress the "Liliputian Bazaar" on West 23rd street has grown to be one of the sights of the City; anique and interesting from the fact that it is the only establishment on the continent devoted wholly to the wants of children, and from its mammoth and steadily increasing proportions, does credit to our great metropolis. It brings joy to many a mother, since the hours spent over the needle or sewing machine, or in anxious subserveniency to the dressmaker, have even in case of the most thrifty come long ago to an end. Every article from a baby's first outfit to each requisite for the youth or maiden of eighteen years, is provided at extremely low figures, although to wealthy buyers it is the resort for elegancies not to be obtained elsewhere. These advantages are not confined to residents of the city, as orders by mail receive the greatest attention.

COTTON FABRICS

present more than the usual variety in combination, color and texture, imitating closely the new designs and ideas displayed in wool materials of all grades. Scotch ginghams are in large and small plaids, tartans and other patterns; large round spots in three sizes called "rivet spots" are sometimes placed in the centre of the squares, and sometimes where the stripes converge; broché and floral effects; also combinations of stripes and delicate leaf patterns. In domestic ginghams the the Parkhill Zephyr gingham is particularly desirable, as the colors are fast, the designs and combinations very pretty and attractive, and the "printed yarn" effects introduced this season lend additional variety and beauty. French and domestic satines are still, popular, although somewhat cast into the shade by the advent "Cleopatra Cloth" (a result of the Egyptian craze) a silk and cotton material so soft and pretty as to be readily mistaken for silk; coming in all colors and ranging from 35 to 75 cents per yard, according to peculiarity of design. VERONA CLARKE.

Steady employment and liberal wages is offered in another column by Sears, Henry & Co., Geneva, N. Y. They are a reliable firm. Established 1865.

CALIFORNIA,

if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c. &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. The discovery was partly accidental but the present

PERFECT BITTERS IS THE RESULT OF SCIENCE.

Millions of sufferers have gratefully and gladly endorsed, during the past quarter of a century the wonderful success of this

PHENOMENAL TONIC OF THE WORLD.

In order to meet every probable demand, two formulas of the same ingredients are now put up.

THE OLD STYLE IS STRONGER, SLIGHTLY BITTER, AND MORE CATHARTIC.

THE NEW STYLE, PLEASANT TO THE TASTE, AND EXPRESSLY ADAPTED TO DELICATE WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

REMEMBER,

There is no disease of low vitality, debility of functions, or nervous prostration for which

VINEGAR BITTERS IS NOT CURATIVE, and its singular power over the lower organisms renders it the implacable foe of

THE DEADLY MICROBE AND OMNIPRESENT BACTERIA

in malarial diseases, cholera, consumption, internal diseases, &c., and so great is its power as a germicide that it is an

UNEQUALLED VERMIFUGE.

A book could be written of its virtues, and another of testimonials, but it is only necessary to remember its general action upon the liver, blood, brain and nerves, to realize its use in a majority of the ills that flesh is heir to, and that no family should ever be without a bottle of

OLD AND NEW STYLE VINEGAR BITTER IN THE HOUSE.

—The coal dealers' harvest is ended.

—Country roads are now in good condition.

—The small boys base ball season has opened.

—Lock Haven is to have a circus on May 18th.

—Millinery openings are becoming numerous.

—Up Bald Eagle the farmers are done sowing oats.

—Picnic parties will soon be the order of the day.

—The ladies are now interested in their flower gardens.

—The ice man now appeareth regularly every morning.

—There was a strange bride and groom in Bellefonte Tuesday.

—The music of the birds is delightful these lovely mornings.

—It is said that Chas. Warfel can catch trout out of a tub of rain water.

—There seems to be an abundance of cat-fish down about Curtin's works.

—Drop in and see us when you want any printing done, we'll do it right.

—A "flying-jenny" has been put up out on the green towards the car works.

—It is in April when one half the world doesn't know where the other half lives.

—Wallace & Co.'s circus and menagerie will be in Bellefonte on May 19th.

—This is undoubtedly some of the nicest April weather ever seen in this climate.

—The railroad company is filling up the swamp in the vicinity of the freight station.

—Who owns the ash pile? is the question that now agitates the mind of a great many.

—Eggs are scarce notwithstanding th fact that they bring fifteen cents per dozen.

—A new high board fence has been erected in front of the old Snow Shoe railroad yard.

—Mrs. Halford, wife of President Harrison's private secretary, died on Wednesday morning.

—Plank is to day being laid on that part of the Race bridge which had not yet been re-planked.

—Painter and paper hangers are busy brightening up a number of homes throughout Bellefonte.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Cook, formerly a resident of this place, died at her home in Altoona on Monday.

—A letter in the Altoona post-office addressed to "Andrew Beezer, Bellefonte," is held for postage.

—Lewis Grower, of this place, is now a clerk in the clothing store of Mr E. S. Woomer, in Philipsburg.

—Tuesday night was lovely for promenading, according to the testimony of a prominent young attorney.

—All ministers of the gospel would confer a favor by sending us notice of all weddings performed by them.

—The exterior wood work on the residence of Mr. E. C. Humes is being adorned with a new coat of paint.

—The Tyrone Herald has celebrated its fourth birthday. It is a good little paper and we wish it continued prosperity.

—A new fence is being put up around the corner of the yard surrounding the residence of Jacob Valentine.

—Sunday, being such a nice day, was taken advantage of by a great many to pay a visit o Bellefonte city of the dead.

—The lilacs will be fuller of blossoms this year than they have been for a long time, a good sign for a large fruit crop.

—Mr. W. I. Fleming has entered the life insurance business and in a few days he will gravitate into a first class agent.

Ex-Treasurer Goss, who now lives in Boalsburg and has gone into the timber tract business, spent Sunday in Boalsburg.

—The family of Mr. Robert Henderson, of Buffalo Run are all sick with scarlet fever. We hope they may soon recover.

—The rumor that the nail works and new Valentine Iron Company were to be combined seems to be without foundation.

—The youth and maiden of "elegant leisure" can now be seen enjoying a mid-day siesta in that charming retreat, the hammock.

—One lone organ grinder was seen and heard on the streets of Bellefonte on Friday. This is a sure sign that Spring is here.

—A nice large sign for Hoover & Miller, dealers in hay, grain, coal and oil has been put up in front of their yard at the old S. S. depot.

—Some newspapers are now predicting snow in May. Such editors should be ashamed of themselves; can't they leave the weather alone.

—Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, has issued an order that no more Sunday funerals shall be held among the Catholics in his diocese.

—It is said that Postmaster Fiedler caught an elegant string of trout on Wednesday with one dollar and fifty cents. The best kind of bait.

—Quite a number of trailing arbutus parties wended their way to the woods on Sunday and the most of them came home with a good supply.

—The annual taking down stove time is at hand and we dare say there will be as many swear words used as there was last fall when the stoves were put up.

—The entrance to the Brockerhoff House is now being remodeled. When the prospective white and gold paint has been applied it will look one hundred per cent better.

—The pulpit of the Presbyterian church was filled on Sunday by Rev. McKinley, of Clearfield, who preached two good sermons, one in the morning and one in the evening.

—Mr. Foster Williams was seen Thursday last lugging a half ton of carpet paper down the hill from the jail. It was the same carpet that Elmer J. Royer carried up on April 1st.

—The old iron fence around the court house yard has been torn away and now when the place is once cleaned and fixed up it will present the appearauce of a beautiful though small park.

—The court house yard is being cleaned up. Now if the county commissioners would only have that iron fence torn away it would add greatly to the appearance of things in that se tion.

—A business man said the other day that it was hard to conceive how good it made a man feel to get up every morning at five o'clock. Wonder how many others will take his medicine.

—The Bush House bartender, Jas. Noon, and the cook of that popular establishment went out trout fishing on Friday. Noon caught two and his companion four and they thought they had done well.

—A piece of advice of use to bicyclists, which would save lots of trouble and probably serious accident is, when passing a horse which seems to frighten, speak to it or call out "whoa" once or twice.

—We lately have heard a number of complaints about insufficient ventilation at the new brick school house on Bishop street. Recently one of the teachers fainted twice for lack of sufficient fresh air.

—A new porch now adorns the front of the residence on Thomas street, occupied by Mr. William Shortlidge. And a nice, large roomy porch is soon to be erected on two sides of James H. Rankin's house.

—If you want all the local news you must subscribe for and take the DAILY NEWS. It not only tells what has happened but also chronicles what will happen. Send in your name and try it for three months.

—Dairyman Fisher, who now occupies the Armor farm just east of Bellefonte, will, about the first of May and regularly thereafter, make two deliveries of milk a day, one in the morning and one in the evening.

—It is authentically stated that if enough Americans can be had to run the furnaces and ore mines in this vicinity not a foreigner will be employed; and that the Hungarians in waiting have been so notified.

—Howardites are somewhat riled up over an article which appeared in last week's Fountain, and which seems to have been written by a resident of that borough. Such personal quarrels should be kept out of newspapers.

—A handsome blue and gold decorated china dinner set and a Rochester lamp were purchased of Mr. W. H. Wilkinson by the employees of the First National Bank Thursday last. Mr. Cheney Hicklen will probably have the benefit of them in the near future.

—Trout fishing stories are becoming stale, especially when such good fishermen as Associate Judge Riley goes forth with only a baking powder box in which to put his fish and comes back with it empty, minus the regulation one trout, a sucker and catfish, a la Hunter and Rupp.

—The Lock Haven Democrat says: With the single exception of the town of Bellefonte, Beech Creek can beat the world for statesmen. We have to cave to Bellefonte because its head has become swelled and they produce nothing but governors, generals, colonels and senators.

—Mr. John Henderson, ex-commissioner of Centre county, was in Bellefonte on Monday transacting business and circulating among his many friends. Mr. H. is one of those genial free-and-easy fellows who makes friends wherever he goes but who is always a terror to democrats.

—Did you ever see a fish jump? If you didn't, chose some warm sunshiny afternoon and walk out water street to the falls just above the Watchman office and you will be amused to see the trout and suckers try to jump over the breast of the dam. And, if the water isn't too high and swift they can jump over, too.

—General D. H. Hastings is rapidly developing into a most popular orator and platform lecturer. Now that is all right; we have no objection to the General gratifying the demands of an appreciative public, but, Daniel; we don't want you to go so deep into the lecturing business that you won't have time to serve as governor from 1894 to 1898.

—The Philipsburg Daily Journal which, by the way, has just entered its fourth year, has lately come out in a bran new dress. This enterprising young journal has already grown to be very active and on all occasions keep abreast of the times. The new dress enhances its appearance very much and we wish it many years of continued prosperity.

—There is a man at Mill Creek, Huntingdon county, who is about as mean as they make 'em. He inserts a notice in his home papers and pays for it as an advertisement and then adds "exchanges please copy," and of course publish free. No, thank you, sir; we can find enough of that kind of stuff to do around home without going to Huntingdon county.

—It is now Harry Keller, Esq., and Henry C. Quigley, Esq., these two young gentlemen having been admitted to practice in the Centre county courts on Thursday morning. The motion for their admission was made by John B. Linn, Esq., and granted by Judge Krebs, who presided at argument court that morning. It is not necessary to enter into an extended eulogy of these two young men as they are both too well known by everybody in Bellefonte and if their future is not a success it will not be from any lack of push or brilliancy on their part.

SEASONABLE SNAP-SHOTS.

AS GATHERED TOGETHER BY OUR FAIR CORRESPONDENT.

Parasols and sun hats are making their appearance.

The event which has been looked forward to by many seems to be approaching realization. Since the very handsome invitations have been sent out by the class of '91 at the State College for their annual reception, whcih will occur on Friday, April 24th. Seven hundred invitations have been sent out and the occasion promises to surpass all former efforts. The dancing will be conducted in the armory at the college building.

Just now society people are fairly carried away by a new craze, which has sprung up called Oueji. This particular oracle seems to be able to answer all questions put to it, in a manner which to say the least, is mysterious. The apparatus consists of a small table, upon which is placed another little tabie, just large enough on which to rest the tip of the fingers when the person wishes to inquire in regard to the unforseen. It takes two individuals to successfully operate this oracle, and the questions are answered by the little table sliding gracefully forward toward the spots on the large table indicating "yes," or "no." Places of residence are indicated by the aid of the alphabet which is arranged on the board. When it comes to the young people their questions naturally turn to love affairs, and it is said that the fate of several of our young ladies and gentlemen is irrevocably sealed, be it for better or for worse.

This new fangled machine throws the old style of telling fortunes way in the shade.

Attending the millinery openings by so many of the ladies is calculated to make a corresponding opening in the average man's pocket book.

One of the largest progres ive euchre parties of the season was that given by Mrs Jackson Spangler last evening. Eleven tables were surrounded, 39 games were indulged in. The ladies' prize, which was one elegant solid gold orange spoon, was won by Mrs. John Lane, she having won 18 games. The gentleman's prize, a solid gold scarf pin with pearl etting, was won by Mr. Daniel Keller, he having won 22 games. Mr. Spangler, who is the soul of hospitality, assisted Mrs. Spangler not a little in adding to the pleasure of the evening. A great many of the ladies were in full evening dress and looked extremely lonely.

Choice refreshments were served which of course was a pleasing feature of the evening.

Miss Rebecca Rhoads entertained a large company of young friends last evening.

Millinry.

As I have always done, I will return from New York, April 4th, with New York Trimmer and more goods untrimmed and pattern hats than you will find elsewhere. I invite all to call and examine stock and compare with others.

m28-2wd & w. MISS M. SNYDER.

—The milliners have fairly turned themselves loose this spring in the matter of hats and bonnets, and it must be admitted they have done so to good purpose if it be only because of the fact that the dead and stuffed bird, the chip and the wing have almost disappeared from the new headgear. Flowers, ribbons and laces have taken the place of the idious taxidermist's sign.

"How you brudder Ben?" "Me? Lor, sister Charity, poorly sure's you born, I is, wid de rheumatis a creeping all about same as a tame snake." "Chile, buy Salvation Oil, dey cure sartin."

The shorter the tunnel the sweeter the kiss, but the older the cold, the harder the cure. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has broken many stubborn coughs.

The Ferris Hams and boneless breakfast bacon are the finest meats in the world. Try them and be convinced. Eureka Cash Grocery, High street, next door to Postoffice.

Feast of the Passover.

Friday the Hebrews will commence the celebration of the Feast of the Passover, and the festival will continue for eight days. It is the first festival of the Hebrew calendar and in all the Jewish houses of worship the event will be properly recognized.

The festival marks the birth of the Hebrew nationality and the Providential deliverance from Egyptian thraldom of the two millions or more who left the city of Rameses under the guidance of Moses and Aaron on the night of the 14th of Nisseau, when the Lord passed through the land of Egypt and smote all the first born "from the first born of Pharoah, who sat on the throne, unto the first born the captive that was in the dungeon and all the first born of cattle."

No manner of leaven is allowed during this season, nor any liquor produced by a farinaceous fermentation, such as ale, porter, beer, whiskey, etc. The prohibition against leaven extends to these five articles: Wheat, rye, barley, oats and millet. Everything of these species is removed from the Hebrew houses on the day preceding the passover before 10 a. m.

New Music.

We just received from the publishers, The H. M. Brainard Co., of Cleveland, the following of their latest issues: Goose Step March and Clover Blossom Polka, by Gosling. Price 40 cents each. Two showy and brilliant compositions, very catchy and taking. Old Friends Scottis he, Militaire, by F. H. Putnam. Price 40 cents. One of this favorite author's best compositions. Sweet Mignonne Shcottische, Militaire, by Louis Grayle. Price 35 cents. Destined to be as popular as the famouss Kirmes, by same anthor. Riverside Dreams Waltzes, by Bertha Baker. Price 60 cents. A beautiful set of new waltzes. All the above are elegantly illustrated, in colors, and gotten up in the finest syle of the art. Send to the publishers for copies, post paid, or ask your nearest music dealer for them.

THE ENEMY IN AMBUSH.

Every one knows that at this season of the year disease lies in ambush, every ready to pounce and prey upon the weak. And any fair-minded physician will tell you that the only safeguard lies in keeping the system thoroughly keyed up by the use (not abuse) of a reliable stimulant. Hundreds of tonics are advertised for this purpose, but experience shows that a pure rye whiskey is the only one to be depended upon. Max Klein's "Silver Age" and "Duquesne" brands are sold under a sworn guarantee of absolute purity; an affidavit accompanies each bottle. "Silver Age" sells for $1.50 and "Duquesne" at $1.25 per full quart bottle. The difference in age makes the difference in price—both brands are warranted to be unadulterated.

You can get Guckenheimer, Finch, Gibson or Overholt from Mr. Klein at $1.00 per quart, or six quarts for $5.00. His stock of wines, brandies, gins, etc., is acknowledged to be the largest and choicest in the state. Goods shipped to all parts of the U. S. Send for catalogue and price list, mentioning this paper. MAX KLEIN, 82 Federal st., Allegheny, Pa.

Marriage Licenses.

Issued during the past week:

Martin Russnock and Boka Straka, both of Snowshoe.

C. H. Hicklin and Rhoda S. Peters, both of Bellefonte.

Robert Boyle, of Bradford, and Lizzie A. Murray, of Milesburg.

James Young and Jane Hefferman, both of Edendale.

Albert E. Smith, of Vittsburg, and Martha J. Baughman, of Sandy Ridge, Pa.

Thos. H. Buchanan, of Bellefonte, and Elizabeth A. Symmonds, of Pleasant Gap.

Harry Campbell, of Filmore, and Ellen Hale, of Julian.

Theo. Shilling and Mrs. Mary Bland, both of Bellefonte.

J. M. Moore, of Taylor twp., and Macinda Moore, of Huntingdon county.

Frank Arney and Lizzie Shinefelt both of Centre Hall.

For bracing up the nerves, purifying the blood and curing sick headache and dyspepsia, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

IT IS TO TEACH THE LADIES.

An Importation of Designers of Ladies' Gowns.

WHAT THE ENTERPRISE OF AN INTERNATIONAL FASHION MAGAZINE HAS DONE FOR ITS READERS.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Among the cabin passengers who arrived from Europe to-day by the steamship "La Bourgogne," were fourteen Parisian designers of ladies' fashionable gowns. These artists have been engaged by the enterprising managers of THE NEW YORK AND PARIS YOUNG LADIES' FASHION BAZAR, to contribute exclusively to the columns of that popular magazine. All of them are well known in New York, for their reputations have preceded them. Mrs. Astor, the Vanderbilts, Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Marshall O. Roberts are among the society leaders who have worn gowns designed by these artists. During an interview with a reporter one of the designers said:

"Paris still leads the world of fashion although Eugenie no longer sits on the throne. Parisian gowns have a style about them that cannot be equaled. That, I suppose, is the reason why we have been engaged to come to America to teach the ladies of your beautiful country, through the columns of THE NEW YORK AND PARIS YOUNG LADIES' FASHION BAZAR, how these wonderful creations of the dress-makers' art are constructed. It is our business to design the handsomest and most fashionable gowns for the different seasons of the year. These designs will be printed in colors and will be accompanied by such clear instructions as to the selection of materials and the cutting and fitting of the garments that no woman of sense will have the least difficulty in making perfect-fitting gowns herself. It is a knack, a science, to fashion a gown that will make a very small and very fleshy lady appear slim. Not one designer out of a thousand can hit upon the true lines unless he makes it the study of a life-time. You ought to see the May number of our Magazine. We have designs in it that will take the hearts of the ladies by storm. They do not get a new dress made up every day, and I can tell you it is an important item to get the best magazine, and the very latest and most exquisite Paris styles, and have it fashioned like the one that is best suited to their figure."

Personal Pencilings.

His Honor, Judge Furst, was fishing on Monday.

Judge Riley went to Philipsburg on Monday evening.

Mr Charles T. Noll spent Sunday with friends in Altoona.

Mrs. D. H. Hastings spent most of last week in the city of brotherly love.

Mr. E. E. Herr spent Monday in Philipsburg. Mr. Herr writes more insurance than any other agent in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Worth the mother of Mrs. Ed. Chambers, departed on the 9 o'clock train last evening for her home in Kennet Square, called thus suddenly away by the illness of her mother Mrs. Pennepacker.

May Snow Storms.

On the 29th of May, forty years ago, there was quite a snow storm and on the 6th of May nine years ago there was a brisk storm of the same sort. Therefore while we hope let us not be too sure that we are through with it all yet. A snow storm is predicted for next Thursday, the 23d, but our friend Dusenberry goes right along fixing up his garden and don't believe a word of it.

Letter List.

BELLFFONTE Pa., Apr. 20, 1891.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the Bellefonte postoffice:

Dippery, Gertrude; Kealer, C. C.; Musser, G. W.; Mowery, Dora E.; Pen, Rev. Frank; Peters, Mrs. May; Royer, Miss Susan; Summers, Winfield.

When called for please say advertised. J. A. FIEDLER, P. M.

White and Gold.

Painters are now at work on the Brockerhoff House applying a new coat of paint. When finished it will be entirely white with gold trimmings. This will be considerable of a change but it will hardly seem as appropriate as brick with nice white penciling.
